Fading Ads of New York City Frank Jump, 2011-11-21 New York City is eternally evolving. From its iconic skyline to its side alleys, the new is perpetually being built on the debris of the past. But a movement to preserve the city's vanishing landscapes has emerged. For nearly twenty years, Frank Jump has been documenting the fading ads that are visible, but less often seen, all over New York. Disappearing from the sides of buildings or hidden by new construction, these signs are remnants of lost eras of New York's life. They weave together the city's unique history, culture, environment and society and tell the stories of the businesses, places and people whose lives transpired among them – the story of New York itself. This photo-documentary is also a study of time and space, of mortality and living, as Jump's campaign to capture the ads mirrors his own struggle with HIV. Experience the ads – shot with vintage Kodachrome film – and the meaning they carry through acclaimed photographer and urban documentarian Frank Jump's lens.

Opening of the Layton Art Gallery, Thursday, April 5th, A. D. 1888 (Classic Reprint) D. K., 2017-11-28 Excerpt from Opening of the Layton Art Gallery, Thursday, April 5th, A. D. 1888 Our building is now about completed, and I think I may say we have one of the most beautiful art galleries, of its size, on this side of the Atlantic. No money or labor has been spared to make it as near fire proof as possible; the walls are twice the thickness of ordinary walls, and will stand for ages. The ground on which it is built is a well known landmark, where our first Episcopal church, old St. Paul's, stood for many years. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy. In rare cases, an imperfection in the original, such as a blemish or missing page, may be replicated in our edition. We do, however, repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully; any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works.

Ad Reinhardt Ad Reinhardt, Josef-Albers-Museum, 2011 The paintings of the American artist, Ad Reinhardt were from the start defined by their clear geometrical forms. Reinhardt, who before his training as a painter had received a degree in art history, rejected any kind of fusion between art and life or any mystification of painting. Around 1953 he did his first black paintings in which every tendency to colour seemed to fade. From 1960 his paintings were all only black, which he himself described as the 'last paintings that anyone can paint.' The encounter between Ad Reinhardt and Josef Albers in 1952 - 1953 and their ensuing dialogues on the meaning of colour within the painting process were for the young Reinhardt an important impulse on his path towards his black paintings. Presented in this book is his oeuvre from the end of the 1930s to the late works; their special relevance can be recognised in juxtaposition with the works of Josef Albers.
