Mobile Apps for Kids Federal Tade Comion,2014-05-23 In February 2012, Federal Trade Commission (FTC) staff issued a report on a survey of mobile "apps" offered for children in Apple's App Store and Google's Android Market, the two largest U.S. app stores. The report, Mobile Apps for Kids: Current Privacy Disclosures are Disappointing, found that little or no information was available to parents about the privacy practices and interactive features of the mobile apps surveyed prior to download. As a result, the report called on all members of the kids' app ecosystem – app stores, developers,and third parties that interact with the apps – to provide greater transparency about the data practices and interactive features of apps geared to children. The report stated that FTC staff would conduct a follow-up survey in six months to evaluate whether and how industry had addressed the concerns raised.FTC staff conducted its follow-up survey during the summer of 2012. Like the first survey, the new survey examined the disclosures that apps provided about their privacy practices and interactive features, such as links to social media. However, the new survey went a step further by testing the apps' practices and comparing them to the disclosures made. Specifically, the new survey examined whether the apps included interactive features or sharedkids' information with third parties without disclosing these facts to parents. The answer: Yes, many apps included interactive features or shared kids' information with third parties without disclosing these practices to parents.Since issuing the first kids' app report, the Commission has continued to promote consumer protections in mobile technologies by engaging in a host of policy, enforcement, and educational initiatives. Additionally, other government agencies, including the California Attorney General and the U.S. Department of Commerce, have launched efforts to increase transparency in the mobile marketplace, and several trade associations have issued selfregulatoryguidelines or launched initiatives regarding mobile app privacy and related issues. Likewise, Apple and Google recently announced changes to their app stores that may address concerns about the failure to post privacy policies and the transmission of personal information by apps.

Appi Alex Gives App Advice Lemi-Ola Erinkitola,2020-11-14 Appi Alex is a fun character who takes the form of a smartphone app. His job is to teach kids how to choose the best apps to download. He also shows them how to use apps safely, so they can have fun while they learn (and their parents don't have to worry). Appi Alex's first order of business is to teach kids that smartphones aren't just for mindless games. There are a ton of learning apps out there that can help your child develop strong critical thinking skills and be a ton of fun to play! He suggests that kids find apps in the STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math) fields, so they can be successful in school and beyond. STEAM fields can help kids achieve their dream jobs of becoming doctors, engineers, architects, and astronauts! Appi Alex also reminds kids to think before downloading apps, avoid downloading anything inappropriate, and try finding one or two reading apps. He makes sure kids know that apps take up storage space on their devices, so they should delete the ones they're no longer using. Finally, Appi Alex makes sure kids know to always ask their parents for permission first! Whether they're downloading an app for the first time or making an in-app purchase, their parent or guardian has the final say. And they should always listen if their parents say an app is inappropriate.

Design For Kids Debra Levin Gelman,2014-07-08 Emotion. Ego. Impatience. Stubbornness. Characteristics like these make creating sites and apps for kids a daunting proposition. However, with a bit of knowledge, you can design experiences that help children think, play, and learn. With Design for Introduction to YouTube Kids Gilad James, PhD, YouTube Kids is a video streaming platform that is specialized for children under the age of 13, providing a safe and age-appropriate environment to explore videos, channels, and playlists. The app was launched in 2015, offering a tailor-made interface that is more intuitive and easy-to-navigate than the regular YouTube app. YouTube Kids has a wide range of content, including educational videos, cartoons, music, gaming, and more, all curated by a team of human reviewers to ensure that it is appropriate for young audiences. YouTube Kids offers a variety of features that are designed to enhance safety and parental control, such as restricted mode, which filters out explicit content, pause watch history, and timer settings that limit screen time. Parents can also customize the app's content based on their child's age and interests using the grown-ups only area. Additionally, YouTube Kids also provides parents with the ability to limit the search function to only pre-approved videos and enable a timer to monitor how long the child has been using the app. Overall, YouTube Kids is a valuable tool for parents who want to give their children access to online video content without the concerns of exposing them to inappropriate or harmful material.
