Bath Salts - DIY Bath Salts for Hobby and Gifts!

Beth White, 2014-08-11 Bath Salts The Step-By-Step Playbook for Making Bath Salts For Gifts And Hobby Bath salts is one of these do-it-yourself projects that really is a moneysaver, especially if you're like me and love to soak in a nice hot bath after a long hard day. And since I can be rather cheap at times, I just didn't want to continue to shell out $20 to $40 a month for high quality and boutique-style bath salts. Especially when I can make my own bath salts with my favorite fragrances at a fraction of what commercial bath salt blends costs. Seriously, you will spend only pennies on the dollar making your own blend, and if you take a lot of baths like I do, that savings will quickly rack up.

Bath Salts and Other Synthetic Drugs Peggy J. Parks, 2013-08 Although they are labeled not for human consumption, bath salts and other synthetic drugs are the latest craze for getting high--and they have already proved to be dangerous and unpredictable. Through objective overviews, primary sources, and full color illustrations this title examines How Serious a Problem Is Synthetic Drug Abuse? What Are the Dangers of Synthetic Drugs? How Should Synthetic Drugs Be Regulated? and How Can Synthetic Drug Abuse Be Prevented?

DIY Bath Salts Sarah McMillan, 2014-12-14 DIY Bath Salts: A Step by Step Beginner's Guide to Making Therapeutic and Natural Bath Salts Looking to make bath salts at home but not sure that it's for you? When I began looking into making DIY bath salts, I had a lot of questions about the ingredients as well as the finished product. Would they be easy to find? Do homemade bath salts work as well as commercially produced ones? We usually think of bath salts as something to be found in stores - and often, we think of them as luxury goods we can't really afford. The good news is that you don't have to spend a bundle on expensive bath salts. In fact, once you get started, you can make unbelievable amounts of marvelous-smelling, therapeutic bath salts for just pennies per use. I dug up lots of different recipes while learning to make my own bath salts, some of which were great and others which weren't exactly my cup of tea. I made a few mistakes along the way, but eventually, I gained the confidence to develop my own recipes for bath salts. If you're interested in making luxurious spa products, saving money, and even improving your health naturally, DIY bath salts are for you. New Drugs Celicia Scott, 2014-11-17 Some young adults think new drugs like spice, bath salts, or salvia are safe. In some cases, they're even legal. But what many young adults don't know is that these drugs are just as dangerous, if not more dangerous, than the illegal drugs that have been around for much longer. Some of these drugs are so new that no research has been done on how safe they are to take, so no one is even sure just how dangerous they really are. Discover the true risks of taking these new drugs. Read the scary real-life stories of people who've used these drugs and had to deal with awful consequences. Learn the downside of these new drugs!

Synthetic Cathinones (Bath Salts) U. S. Department U.S. Department of Justice, 2014-11-16 The National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC) assesses with high confidence that the distribution and abuse of synthetic cathinones will increase in the United States in the near term, posing yet another challenge to U.S. law enforcement officials. Poison control centers and medical professionals around the country are increasingly reporting patients suffering adverse physical effects associated with abuse of these drugs, further compounding the problem. Available data and law enforcement reporting suggest increasing levels of synthetic cathinone availability and abuse, but such information is limited and precise levels are unknown. U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) currently tracks seizures of synthetic cathinones at U.S. ports of entry (POEs), but many synthetic cathinone products are disguised or mislabeled to impede detection. Because common field test kits, drug-detecting canines, and routine urine drug screens do not detect synthetic cathinones, law enforcement officials are challenged in interdicting such drugs and prosecuting their manufacturers and distributors. Synthetic cathinones, typically marketed as bath salts and plant food, are sold legally under various names (Ivory Wave, Blizzard, etc.) in most areas of the United States. The products are generally sold in retail establishments such as adult stores, independently owned convenience stores, gas stations, head shops, and skateboard shops. The products, as well as their raw chemical components, are also sold on many Internet sites, including popular Internet auction sites. Additionally, synthetic cathinones have been sold by independent dealers as ecstasies in powdered form, in single-component tablets and capsules, and in tablets and capsules containing cathinones combined with MDMA (3,4-methylenedioxymethamphetamine) or other illicit controlled substances. Abusers typically ingest, inhale, inject, smoke, or snort (insufflate) the drugs to experience stimulant effects similar to those induced by amphetamine. Manufacturers and distributors of synthetic cathinone products evade U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) regulation and enforcement because synthetic cathinones are not scheduled under the Federal Controlled Substances Act (CSA). However, possession and distribution of the synthetic cathinones may be prosecuted, albeit with greater difficulty, under the Federal Controlled Substance Analogue Enforcement Act of 1986 (as amended) of the CSA. The availability and suitability of a prosecution under the analogue statute depends on the particular compound being trafficked and the facts of the case. Further, distributors deceptively market synthetic cathinone products as not for human consumption to evade U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) scrutiny. Cathinone products that are introduced into interstate commerce and promoted as alternatives to illicit street drugs may be prosecutable under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act as unapproved new drugs and misbranded drugs. (See the offenses at 21 U.S.C. 331(a), (d) and penalties at 21 U.S.C. 333.)¹ Additionally, members of the Congress have introduced legislation to nationally ban the sale of certain synthetic cathinones, and, as of April 2011, all 50 states and the District of Columbia have introduced or announced plans to introduce legislation banning or restricting the distribution and possession of certain synthetic cathinones and cathinone derivatives. As synthetic cathinones become more regulated, abusers will likely use the Internet with greater frequency to purchase cathinone products, the raw chemicals used in their production, and products that contain cathinones not specifically prohibited by enacted legislation.
