The Nine Lives of Frank Tipton Teresa Powers,2016-12-14 The Nine Lives of Frank Tipton, is a black humor version of the Cinderella story set deep in the redneck south. Think My Name is Earl with a female lead and a lot of dead bodies. Think Raising Hope but with no baby or meemaw. Think True Blood, but without the vampires, hotties, or hunks. It's complete with revenge, murder, mentally-challenged kids, and a love story. Audrey Peters is a hard working girl from a small backwater town in Virginia. Having never been lucky at love, she finally meets the man of her dreams, Frank Tipton, a hardworking city sanitation worker who is very proud of his job. Following a whirlwind romance she moves in with Frank into his modified motor home in Shady Holler Trailer Park, a mobile mansion, if you will. Within just a few short months, Audrey realizes Frank was not the man she fell in love with. A new girl comes on the scene and captures his attention. Jealousy rears it's ugly head, and Audrey will make Frank pay. Audrey decides to kill Frank, but how can you kill your boyfriend when his friends keep getting in the way? Frank always said he had nine lives and she is starting to believe it. As she accidentally kills many of his friends in schemes meant for him, Audrey gets more determined than ever to knock Frank off. Though Audrey is cold-blooded killer, you'll find yourself laughing, loving, and even cheering her on. You'll even find yourself mourning Frank and his buddies at the dump.

The Buzzing Jim Knipfel,2007-12-18 Meet Roscoe Baragon--crack reporter at a major (well, maybe not that major) metropolitan newspaper. Baragon covers what is affectionately called the Kook Beat--where the loonies call and tell him in meticulously deranged detail what it’s like to live in their bizarre and lonely world. Lately Baragon’s been writing stories about voodoo curses and alien abductions; about fungus-riddled satellites falling to earth and thefts of plumbing fixtures from SRO hotels by strange aquatic-looking creatures. Not exactly New York Times material. Maybe it’s the radioactive corpse that puts him over the edge. Or maybe it’s the guy who claims to have been kidnapped by the state of Alaska! But Baragon is now convinced that a vast conspiracy is under way that could take the whole city down--something so deeply strange that it could be straight out of one of the old Japanese monster movies that he watches every night before he goes to sleep. But stuff like this only happens in the movies. Right? The Buzzing marks the fictional debut of the acclaimed author of Slackjaw. It is a novel of deep paranoia and startling originality. And it could certainly never happen. Right? Right?

The Comic Latin Grammar Percival Leigh,2021-10-11 Book Excerpt: thic, affords a good illustration of this remark; but the comic Temple of the Fine Arts, in Trafalgar Square, is what Lord Bacon would have called a glaring instance of its correctness. The occurrences of the day bear all of them the stamp of facetiousness. The vote of approbation, lately passed on a certain course of policy, is a capital joke; the tricks that are constantly played off upon John Bull by the Russians, French, Yankees, and others, though somewhat impertinent to the aforesaid John, must seem very diverting to lookers on. The state of the Drama may also be brought forward in proof of our position. Tragedies are at a discount; farces are at a premium; lions, nay goats and monkeys, are pressed into the service of Momus. Even the various institutions for the advancement of morals have not escaped the influence of the prevailing taste. To mention that respectable body of men, the Teetotallers, is sufficient of itself to excite a smile. In short, look wherever you will, you will find it a matter of Read More
