The Canadian Sales Tax Thomas M. Gordon,1928 A sales tax is a tax levied upon commodities when they are sold, at a certain percentage of their selling price. It is, really, a general excise tax. While the ordinary, excises are confined to certain particular articles, such as liquor and tobacco, the general excise or sales tax applies to all or a very large number of articles. The most extreme form of general sales tax is the turnover tax, which is levied, usually at a low rate, upon the turnover or gross sales of all dealers in commodities (and often upon the services of professional men as well). A turnover tax on commodity dealers amounts to a tax upon each commodity every time it changes hands, from the first manufacturer to the ultimate consumer. [...] --

A Sales Tax for Alberta Robert L. Ascah,2022-06-03 The days of buoyant capital investment, jobs, and wealth are passing Alberta by as the boom-and-bust cycle runs its course and the global climate crisis becomes more acute. As the province scrambles to boost the dying oil economy and curb spending, one solution is all but ignored—a sales tax. In this collection, Alberta scholars and policy experts map out why and how a provincial sales tax can and should be implemented. They examine energy revenues, household incomes, and political support as well as opportunities for improving democracy and reducing the volatility of government revenues. Finally, this volume offers recommendations on structuring a consultative review process to improve Alberta's long-term fiscal sustainability. Contributions by Ergete Ferede, Ian Glassford, Kenneth J. McKenzie, Melville McMillan, Elizabeth Smythe, and Graham Thomson.
