The Art of Asking Amanda Palmer,2014-11-11 FOREWORD BY BRENE BROWN and POSTSCRIPT FROM BRAIN PICKINGS CREATOR MARIA POPOVA Rock star, crowdfunding pioneer, and TED speaker Amanda Palmer knows all about asking. Performing as a living statue in a wedding dress, she wordlessly asked thousands of passersby for their dollars. When she became a singer, songwriter, and musician, she was not afraid to ask her audience to support her as she surfed the crowd (and slept on their couches while touring). And when she left her record label to strike out on her own, she asked her fans to support her in making an album, leading to the world's most successful music Kickstarter. Even while Amanda is both celebrated and attacked for her fearlessness in asking for help, she finds that there are important things she cannot ask for-as a musician, as a friend, and as a wife. She learns that she isn't alone in this, that so many people are afraid to ask for help, and it paralyzes their lives and relationships. In this groundbreaking book, she explores these barriers in her own life and in the lives of those around her, and discovers the emotional, philosophical, and practical aspects of THE ART OF ASKING. Part manifesto, part revelation, this is the story of an artist struggling with the new rules of exchange in the twenty-first century, both on and off the Internet. THE ART OF ASKING will inspire readers to rethink their own ideas about asking, giving, art, and love.

Ted Strong's Motor Car Edward Taylor, 2014-08-12 Carl Schwartz burst into the living room of the Moon Valley Ranch house with fire in his eye and pathos in his voice: As sheer as I standing here am, dot schwein I'm going to kill! I'll jest bet yer a million dollars ter a piece o' custard pie yer don't, said Bud Morgan, rising from the lounge where he had been resting after a strenuous day in the big pasture. I'll pet you, shouted Carl. Der pig pelongs mit me der same as you. Go ahead, then, said Bud, lying down again. But I want ter tell yer this, and take it from me, it's ez straight ez an Injun's hair, yer kin kill yer own part o' thet hawg if yer want ter, but if my part dies I'll wallop yer plenty. I've spent too much time teachin' thet pig tricks ter lose it now. Vich part der pig you own, anyway? Ther best part; ther head. Den I dake der tail. By Chiminy, I get skvare yet so soon. I cut der tail off, und dot vill make der pig not able to valk straight ven he can't der tail curl in der opposite direction. Den ve see how mooch der tricks he done. Vat?I'll hev ther law on yer if yer interfere with thet pig.What's the matter with you two fellows? asked Ted Strong, the leader of the broncho boys, who was writing some letters at the big oak table in the center of the room.Der pig, he moost die, cried Carl tragically.Why, what has 'Oof' done now?He has ate all mein gabbages, answered Carl, with almost a sob.Well, s'posin' he hez, said Bud. What in thunder is cabbages fer, if they ain't ter be et by pigs?Yes, you, but not fer dose kind of pig. Maybe you might eat dem und it vould be all right, but not der pig mit four feet.Carl had a small garden back of the ranch house, in which he had been raising cabbages, devoting all his spare time to them and good-naturedly taking the joshing the boys gave him. They were of the opinion that a cow-puncher was degrading himself by working in a garden.Jumpin' sand hills, he'll be takin' up knittin' when winter comes on, an' makin' of his own socks, said Bud, in disgust.No, he's going in for tatting, said Ben Tremont. He's going to make a lot of doilies for the chairs so we won't soil the satin upholstery with our oily hair.As all the chairs in the living room were very plain, made of solid oak, with bullhide seats and backs, this remark was received with laughter.Go aheadt! said Carl. Ven you ain'dt drough, let me know. I know your own bizziness. Ven der vinter comes und I haf dot deliciousness sauerkraut, und am eating it, und ven your mouts vater so dot you slobber like a colt off der clover, den-ah, den, I gifs you der ha-ha, ain'dt it? Den you see who der knitting und der tatting do, eh?Carl laughed at the thought of how the boys would miss the sauerkraut which he was going to make. But now Oof, the pet pig of the establishment, had eaten them nearly all, and was standing in his sty too full even for the utterance of his usual lazy grunt. He looked like an animated keg of sauerkraut with four pegs at the corners for him to stand on, so full was he of Carl's cherished and esculent cabbages.How in the world did he get into the cabbage patch? asked Ted. I thought you had made it pig tight.So did I, answered Carl. No pig but vun mit der teufel inside him vould haf got der fence over.Got over ther fence! snorted Bud. Why, yer feeble-minded son of a downtrodden race, thet thar pig couldn't hev got over ther fence without a balloon. Thet fence is six feet high. A deer couldn't jump it.I didn't saying so. He cannot yump, dot pig. He cannot moof, so full mit gabbages are he. No, he didn't yump, he yoost sving himself over mit dot fence.Slush! Yer gittin' plumb dotty. No pig could swing hissself over thet fence.But it's der only vay vat he could, und Song, der Chineser cook, saw him did it.You don't believe what a Chinyman tells yer, do yer?What did Song say? How did the pig do it? asked the boys, roused to interest in the squabble by this statement.

The Fabulous Ward Brothers Chloe Sylvers, 2021-10-18 The life story of the five Ward brothers Drew, Charles, Willie, Frank and Ted who emerged from the cotton fields of Alabama to pimping and macking then to turning their lives over to God.

Ted Baker in Terrorist Gold Daniel Perkins, 2017-12-12 I was shocked at how many people wanted another book. I heard comments like, “These are my friends,” and “I want to know what happens to their relationships.” But the most overriding comment was, “We want more.” I have tried in Terrorist Gold to bring closure to some subjects while opening the doors for the next book in the series “Russian Escape,” which will have to wait its turn until I finish my first historical fiction, “Abraham Lincoln and the Second Assassin,” due out in mid-2018.

The Empty House Mystery: A Ted Wilford Mystery Norvin Pallas, 2019-01-01 The Empty House Mystery combines a real puzzle with the story of Ted Wilford’s strenuous efforts to get out the bi-weekly Town Crier while the editor is ill. Ted and his friend, Nelson, who have just graduated from high school, devote part of their pre-college summer to finding the thief of a set of plans for the new state thruway. It all began for Ted one day in the office of The Town Crier when a man came in to advertise in the “Lost and Found” column for a missing folder with a peculiar zipper. Later, when it was brought to the office by the finder, Ted, carried away by his desire to demonstrate the splendid service offered by the paper, personally left the folder at the advertiser’s address. It turned out to be an empty house, but Ted had reasons for thinking it was logical to leave it there. However, later when he discovered that the folder really contained plans stolen from the highway department, Ted knew he must find it as quickly as possible. The quest leads Nelson and him into adventures in several empty houses, into an investigation of the mysteriously ringing telephones, and, finally, to a completely different solution than he or the reader had anticipated. The daily doings in a small-town newspaper office plus a well-plotted story make another satisfying Ted Wilford mystery.

The Baseball Mystery (Ted Wilford 11) Norvin Pallas, 2018-09-12 When The Town Crier, the semi-weekly newspaper for which Ted Wilford writes and Nelson Morgan takes pictures during their college vacations, decides to bring the statewide baseball tournament to Forestdale, Ted and Nelson need about ten hands and a forty-eight hour day to handle it all. Ted is in general charge of all the complicated scheduling and housing arrangements, while Nelson is an official scorer. Suddenly, in spite of the apparently smooth progress of the tournament, they begin to suspect something is wrong somewhere, and know they had to do something about it...

Death of a Pieman Chris French, 2015-04-24 Ted always wanted to be a policeman and ever since he was a child he voraciously read detective novels. He was always struck by how stupid the policemen were made out to be. His career path was not dynamic. Until he met his wife he seemed to make slow progress on his cases and failed to make the decisive breakthrough. He was good at passing the exams to get considered for promotion and he interviewed well, but he lacked the big case to propel him to the attention of the really senior police officers. So the years passed by. Then he met Clare and now he looked at each case with a certainty that she could help him when he got bogged down. She was his best kept secret.

A Crime Against One Person Edie Schmoll, 2010-10-23 A Crime Against One Person is a medical tragedy, a legal battle, and a timeless love story. As a million patients are injured through medical errors in our hospitals annually--and up to 200,000 are killed--this true tale of medical malpractice and the havoc it wreaks on innocent persons reveals a crisis that affects everyone.--and is ignored by our leaders and the medical community. Interspersed are romantic and humorous incidents to relieve the underlying horror, plus practical advice for caregivers of helpless victims. Here is the shocking truth of care in American hospitals and nursing homes.

Speaking of Sadness David Allen Karp, 1997 Combining a scholar's care and thoroughness with searing personal insight, Karp brings the private experience of depression into sharp relief, drawing on a remarkable series of intimate interviews with 50 depressed men and women. The Saga of the Middleham Jewel Vera Seaton, 2014-04 This is the story of the famous Middleham Jewel and how the lives of an entire family were changed as a result of this single metal detector find. This story starts in Barnard Castle at a little antiques and collectables shop called The Mudlark, which belonged to Ted and Vera Seaton. They had moved to Barnard Castle after Ted had been made redundant because of the recession of the seventies. With a young daughter to take care of, they decided to become self-employed. In February 1978 they had sold their house in Gateshead-on-Tyne to buy the shop, using their collectables as the stock. Ted was an amateur historian and archaeologist as well as a keen metal detectorist. He was a modern detective who believed in using scientific gadgets that could help in his search for artefacts that would tell him a story. He was a talented man who understood the ways people lived in the past, and he was able to read the land, as it were. He walked the countryside and tuned into it using his psychic abilities as well as taking in the visual evidence. He could see where there used to be streams, dwellings and bridle paths that were now buried under vegetation and invisible to the untrained eye. He was sensitive to good and bad vibrations in a given location. He found and donated many artefacts to local museums. He was also actively involved in archaeological digs when help was required. On the 2nd of September 1985, while out metal detecting with two of his friends, Ted unearthed what became known as the Middleham Jewel. After it was declared not to be treasure trove, it was returned to him. At this time, he and his family and friends had no idea how it would change their lives.
