Crimewatch Solved Hugh Miller,2001 Ten police cases where Crimewatch and its viewers have vitally contributed to successful prosecutions - a new true crime classic. Since 1984, the BBC's Crimewatch programme has stood at the forefront of British public service broadcasting. Introduced since the beginning by Nick Ross, the programme presents detailed histories of unsolved serious crimes committed in the United Kingdom. Crimewatch has a regular audience of millions, whose calls have led to thousands of arrests and hundreds of convictions. Accounts of murder, assault, serial rape, armed robbery, fraud - and much else - underscore the bleak nature of crime, the opposing vigour of the law and the incredible humanity of those involved. The stories also illustrate the various ways seemingly inexplicable cases are cracked. Drawing on official records and programme material as well as interviews with police and victims of crime, and with a foreword by Nick Ross, Crimewatch Solved - The Inside Story demonstrates the value of a television programme that enables its viewers to make such a crucial difference.

Crime Watching Deborah Jermyn,2006-10-27 In recent years, reality TV formats have proliferated on television. One of the most significant and controversial strands within this has been the growth of 'real crime TV'. Encapsulating everything from crime appeal shows to reconstruction programmes and actuality footage shows, real crime TV now plays a major role in our television schedules, filling countless hours of air-time every week. Crime Watching examines the spectacular growth of real crime TV. Of these programmes, the BBC's Crimewatch UK is Britain's best known (in small part due to the tragedy of presenter Jill Dando's death). The book argues that the birth of the BBC's Crimewatch UK in 1984 was a key transitional moment in the emergence, expansion and subsequent popularity of these programmes both in the UK and internationally. Looking closely at the social and political context of the period in which Crimewatch UK first appeared and examining the aesthetics, address and appeal of a range of other shows appearing in its wake, including Police Camera Action!, America's Most Wanted and World's Wildest Police Videos, this book investigates the conditions that have enabled and advanced the ubiquity of real crime programming on contemporary television and the anxieties that surround it. Examining critiques that real crime TV has increased fear of crime while legitimising a surveillance culture, and that it serves to stifle debate about criminality and policing, Crime Watching also reflects on the pleasures of these programmes and the enduring nature of our culture's seemingly endless fascination with real crime stories.

Crime Beat Michael Connelly,2015 'Death is my beat.' Those words, spoken by the narrator and hero of The Poet, Jack McEvoy, could also apply to Michael Connelly. Time and time again in these riveting true crime, non-fiction pieces, we make the connection between Connelly the crime reporter and Connelly the novelist: 'On the day I arrived in Los Angeles I sat in the newspaper editor's office being interviewed for a job on the crime beat. The day before there had been a bank heist in which the thieves had gone into the city's labyrinthine storm water tunnel system to get beneath the bank before tunnelling upward.' Years later that story would become The Black Echo. 'Moments. They kept coming. One morning an editor called me and told me to swing by a murder scene on my way to the office. Just like that, like I was picking up a coffee on the way to work. The murder was on Woodrow Wilson Drive in the Hollywood Hills. I went as instructed and got the story. I also got the place where I would put the home of the fictional detective [Harry Bosch] I had secretly begun writing about . . .' The cops, the killers, the cases - it's all here in a collection that is a MUST for Connelly fans.

It has a stronger focus on emerging issues and policies in the field of victimology than other comparable texts and offer the most current research, thinking, and best practices regarding crime victims and crime victim services.
