This legislation provides for the implementation of a Medicare prescription drug program, effective January 1, 2006. In the interim, MMA requires the Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) to establish a temporary program to endorse prescription drug discount card programs meeting certain requirements. The purpose is to provide access to prescription drug discounts to persons who voluntarily enroll with a private card plan. Each card sponsor is to provide each enrollee with access to negotiated prices. The program will also provide up to $600 in transitional assistance in both 2004 and 2005 for low-income persons enrolled in endorsed card programs. Many seniors do not have adequate prescription drug coverage. In 1998, an estimated 10 million elderly people, or 27% of Medicare beneficiaries, did not have any form of prescription drug coverage. The proposed card program would be similar to prescription drug discount card programs that are currently available from a number of sources. The Administration's card would endorse and promote a number of qualified privately-administered prescription drug discount card plans at a maximum enrollment rate of $25 per plan. Since the announcement of President Bush's proposal, several pharmaceutical companies announced that they would offer their own senior discount card plans for low-income seniors beginning in early 2002. The Administration has stated that the Medicare-endorsed card plans would offer discounts in the range of 10% to 25% on retail prescription drug prices. The net overall effects of President Bush's proposed program would depend on the details of the individual card plans, including formularies and ...
