Your Money, Your Goals Consumer Financial Protection Bureau,2015-03-18 Welcome to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's Your Money, Your Goals: A financial empowerment toolkit for social services programs! If you're reading this, you are probably a case manager, or you work with case managers. Finances affect nearly every aspect of life in the United States. But many people feel overwhelmed by their financial situations, and they don't know where to go for help. As a case manager, you're in a unique position to provide that help. Clients already know you and trust you, and in many cases, they're already sharing financial and other personal information with you. The financial stresses your clients face may interfere with their progress toward other goals, and providing financial empowerment information and tools is a natural extension of what you are already doing. What is financial empowerment and how is it different from financial education or financial literacy? Financial education is a strategy that provides people with financial knowledge, skills, and resources so they can get, manage, and use their money to achieve their goals. Financial education is about building an individual's knowledge, skills, and capacity to use resources and tools, including financial products and services. Financial education leads to financial literacy. Financial empowerment includes financial education and financial literacy, but it is focused both on building the ability of individuals to manage money and use financial services and on providing access to products that work for them. Financially empowered individuals are informed and skilled; they know where to get help with their financial challenges. This sense of empowerment can build confidence that they can effectively use their financial knowledge, skills, and resources to reach their goals. We designed this toolkit to help you help your clients become financially empowered consumers. This financial empowerment toolkit is different from a financial education curriculum. With a curriculum, you are generally expected to work through most or all of the material in the order presented to achieve a specific set of objectives. This toolkit is a collection of important financial empowerment information and tools you can access as needed based on the client's goals. In other words, the aim is not to cover all of the information and tools in the toolkit - it is to identify and use the information and tools that are best suited to help your clients reach their goals.

Financial Empowerment: More Money for More Mission Peter C. Brinckerhoff, 1998-02-27 In order to make sure that a not-for-profit is able to best complete its mission, a manager of the organization must determine how to allocate the resources it has today, and ensure the financial future of the organization by managing the funds to work for them in the long-term. This second volume of the widely-respected Mission-Based Management(r) Series outlines a not-for-profit organization's plan for financial success. It highlights the eight characteristics of financial empowerment, and provides the skills and concepts that a nonprofit organization and its managers will need to survive, including estimating cash needs, treating funders like valued customers, developing money-making businesses, determining the financial options that are available, and implementing an empowered budget process. Other titles in the Mission-Based Management(r) Series Mission-Based Management: Leading Your Not-for-Profit into the 21st Century Named Best New Nonprofit Management Book by the Nonprofit Management Association. The Association said, The Nonprofit Management Association is pleased to spotlight the extraordinary work of Peter Brinckerhoff in his newest publication, Mission-Based Management: Leading Your Not-for-Profit Into the 21st Century. The book was cited by the Nonprofit Management Association as a great overall manager's and board member's guide to nonprofits—quite laudable in that it's eminently readable and downright enjoyable. Mission-Based Marketing: How Your Not-for-Profit Can Succeed in a More Competitive World A direct, practical guide that shows how you can lead your not-for-profit to success in a more competitive world. The book provides the knowledge and skills to build a market-driven organization that holds onto its core values, does more mission better, and successfully competes for funding, clients, referral sources, staff, and board members. In this direct, practical guide, Peter Brinckerhoff shows how you can have more money to do more mission. You will learn: How to get more funds from current sources How to find and develop new sources of funds How to keep more of what you get How to use your funds to do more mission over the long term In the book you will learn the eight characteristics of financial empowerment and then explore each one in depth. Peter gives you ideas and techniques you can begin to use tomorrow. The book shows you: How to estimate cash needs How to treat your funders like valued customers How to develop a money-making business How to make your financial reports into valuable tools What financing options are available—and what to avoid An empowering budget process How to price your services effectively When to set up a subsidiary corporation The role of the CEO in financial empowerment The role of the board in financial empowerment Specific steps you can begin now to achieve financial empowerment A sample empowerment plan How to keep what you earn so you can do more mission All of this and more presented in Peter's own direct and helpful style, honed over hundreds of seminars and workshops Peter is the author of two award-winning books, Mission-Based Management and Financial Empowerment, both published by Wiley. His newest book, Mission-Based Marketing, was released in September 1997. Peter's books are used as the core texts in over 50 graduate and undergraduate university programs in nonprofit management. Peter's articles have been published in Advancing Philanthropy, NonProfit World, Strategic Governance, The Journal of Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Marketing, Communications, and The Grantsmanship Center News. Peter received his Bachelor's Degree from the University of Pennsylvania and his Master's of Public Health Administration from Tulane. He is a former VISTA Volunteer, and has served as a staff member, Executive Director, board member, and volunteer for numerous local, state, and national not-for-profits. Peter lives in Springfield, Illinois with his wife Chris and their three children, Ben, Adam, and Caitlin.

Gaining Financial Empowerment: Four Simple Steps to Financial Freedom Michelle K. Niccum, 2011-12-14 More and more individuals are finding themselves living beyond their financial means. Whether this is due to a limited income or the state of one's spending habits, living a life outside our financial means can be very stressful. Michelle Niccum brings one solution to the issue of financial insecurity in this simple, easy-to-read book. She lays out for the reader four simple steps that, when taken completely, can alleviate financial insecurity and bring about financial freedom. Michelle states the importance of not only fixing the issue of money but also exploring the reasons why we continue to find ourselves in a state of financial hardship. She knows that financial issues are both an outside issue of money and an inside issue of self-worth and self-esteem. By following the steps and completing the exercises in this book, the reader will not only gain financial empowerment, but also find freedom from financial insecurity.

The Financially Empowered Woman Tracy Theemes,2014-10-02 Tracy Theemes knows money, and she knows women. As a certified Investment Advisor, Theemes is an expert in wealth management. As a former therapist and counselor, Theemes has deep insight into how thoughts, feelings and beliefs shape her clients' money-related behaviour. In her book The Financially Empowered Woman, Theemes brings these two areas of expertise together in a unique and compelling resource for women who want to gain mastery over their financial lives but need advice and encouragement to do so. Women today feel heavily burdened in their lives. Career pressures, family responsibilities, rising divorce rates, the impossible ideal of the superwoman, and a culture that still assumes that men are better equipped than women to deal with financial matters all contribute to the powerlessness many women feel when it comes to money. Hundreds of Theemes' female clients from across the socioeconomic spectrum confess harbouring feelings such as anxiety, guilt and overwhelm around their own money. In The Financially Empowered Woman, Theemes unpacks the social and emotional roots of the problem and firmly but gently leads readers to greater self-awareness and empowered decision-making. After mastering the why, it's time to move on to the how. Theemes offers a concise and accessible five-step planning guide that every woman can follow to get her financial life on track and keep it there. A comprehensive glossary of financial terms and explanation of financial products and processes equips readers with every piece of information they need in order to make informed, prudent decisions regarding their financial lives. Readers will learn: • How gender affects our ability to earn, and also our financial needs • Why women think differently about money than men do – and how to use those differences to your advantage • How to gauge your financial position and monitor it as it changes • How to hire suitable financial professionals for your money team • How to talk to your banker or broker; how to read and understand financial statements • How to identify your financial values and set goals that support them Blending compassion and insight with rigorous professional expertise, The Financially Empowered Woman is destined to become an indispensable resource for every woman who wants to step into her own financial empowerment.

Does This Make My Assets Look Fat? Susan L. Hirshman,2010-09-14 As Susan Hirshman sees it, the rules of successful dieting are the same rules that apply to successful money management. In this upbeat and informative guide she offers women a 3-phase personalized plan that follows common dieting programs to help them understand their finances. The structure of the book is consistent with that of a typical diet book - it includes an evaluation phase, an induction phase, and a maintenance regimen. Susan offers specific advice on topics that matter most to women including how to develop realistic and attainable goals, how to make smart financial decisions, how to determine the best way to invest based on a reader's 'investment personality', and how and when to get professional help from a financial advisor all while relating it back to a theme that practically every woman has experienced at least once in her life – dieting!. Susan's program completely removes the intimidation factor that often accompanies the words 'personal finance' and 'investing' and provides women with all the information they need to take control of their financial situations once and for all.

Financial Empowerment Training for Social Service Programs Consumer Financial Consumer Financial Protection Bureau,2014-08-10 The mission of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is to make markets for consumer financial products and services work for consumers by making rules more effective, by consistently and fairly enforcing those rules, and by empowering consumers to take more control over their economic lives. Empowering consumers to take control of their financial lives and achieve their own life goals is a critical part of the Bureau's mission. Consumers need four things to be financially empowered. First, consumers need consistent access and the ability to choose among high-quality financial services. Second, consumers need sufficient information about the costs, the benefits, and the risks, of choices in the marketplace. Third, consumers need a set of financial habits and skills that constitute financial capability to help them to make the financial decisions that benefit themselves and their families. Finally, consumers need to know that they can get a better shot at achieving their own life goals if they affirmatively seek information, make choices, and take steps to control their financial lives. Consumers today are faced with increasingly complex financial decisions, many of which have long term consequences. When individuals don't have enough knowledge and confidence to navigate the financial marketplace, it may be harder for them to avoid financial problems. For many consumers it is essential to have a trusted resource for financial information, education and help navigating the many steps toward financial empowerment. This is especially true for people who are economically vulnerable.

The Bapkin Plan Gerard Hass,2012-09-27 Sixty-one percent of Canadians between the ages of 45 and 64 dont have a formal financial strategy. In The BAPKIN Plan, author and financial planner Gerard Hass provides simple yet effective guidance for creating a financial plan to help you save, invest, and plan for retirement. The BAPKIN Plan presents an easy-to-remember framework and explains the basic steps you can use to simplify and improve your life and your financial wellbeing. Offering checklists to help you organize your journey, this reference tool can guide you to a better understanding of what your financial adviser or planner is recommending including the positive and negative features of potential investments. You'll learn how to develop a commitment to setting simple goals and to following a simple plan based on common sense; commit to strategies to live within your means; draft a statement of net worth and revisit it every year; protect yourself with an emergency fund, line of credit, and insurances; protect your loved ones by having life insurance coverage, a will, and powers of attorney; understand how you are taxed and the importance of seeking professional help; develop a personal pension plan strategy based on your life stage; institute a disciplined investment strategy that will suit your objectives; and work with the adviser who is a professional not a salesman. Communicating a wealth of information, Hass provides advice to help move you forward in your financial empowerment.

Building Financial Empowerment for Survivors of Domestic Violence Judy L. Postmus, Amanda M. Stylianou, 2023-02-10
Each year, millions of women throughout the world experience violence and abuse at the hands of their intimate partner. Abusers coercively control them by using a variety of tactics ranging from physical or sexual violence to emotional or psychological abuse. An additional tactic often used includes financial abuse in which the abuser controls the money in the family, exploits the victim's financial standing, and interrupts her efforts to be self-sufficient. The impact of financial abuse can leave women financially trapped in the relationship with limited financial management skills, knowledge, or self-confidence. Indeed, survivors often mention financial barriers as a top reason for keeping them trapped by the abuser in the relationship. Curiously, little of the research on domestic violence has sought to either fully understand the impact of financial abuse or to determine which intervention strategies are most effective for the financial empowerment of survivors. Building Financial Empowerment for Survivors of Domestic Violence aims to address this critical knowledge gap by providing those who work with survivors of domestic violence with practical knowledge on how to empower the financial well-being and stability of survivors. Specifically, every practitioner, human service provider, criminal justice practitioner, financial manager, and corporate supervisor should be screening the women they encounter for economic abuse, and when such abuse is found, they should work with the women toward developing financial safety plans and refer survivors to financial empowerment programs to assist survivors to become free from abuse.

Financial Nutrition® for Young Women Melissa Donohue, 2017-09-21 A powerful resource for all women who want a better understanding of financial empowerment, this book provides an easy-to-follow approach for adults to teach girls about money—and for girls to do some learning on their own. Women earn 78 cents on the dollar, on average, compared to men in America, despite decades of fighting for wage equality. And while it is true that women have significantly more opportunities for earning than in past eras, this improved ability for women to determine their own financial future makes it more important that girls understand the strategies for financial success. Financial Nutrition® for Young Women: How (and Why) to Teach Girls about Money addresses the two critical levels that are necessary to truly eradicate women's economic inequality: what to teach girls and what women need to learn. Authored by a financial educator who is also a mother and a teacher, this book is for people who care about teenage girls—parents and other family members, educators, financial advisors, troop leaders, camp directors, and community organization leaders. The talking points and independent activities are easily accessible and engaging for both adults and students. Financial Nutrition® for Young Women: How (and Why) to Teach Girls about Money can be used effectively in the home, the classroom, afterschool programs, clubs, and camps, as well as in girls' organizations. It can also be a resource to women who want to better understand how to empower themselves financially.
