Regions of Unlikeness Thomas Gardner,1999-01-01 In Regions of Unlikeness Thomas Gardner explores the ways a number of quite different twentieth-century American poets, including Elizabeth Bishop, John Ashbery, Robert Hass, Jorie Graham, and Michael Palmer, frame their work as taking place within, and being brought to life by, an acknowledgment of the limits of language. Gardner approaches their poetry in light of philosopher Stanley Cavell's remarkably similar engagement with the issues of skepticism and linguistic finitude. The skeptic's refusal to settle for anything less than perfect knowledge of the world, Cavell maintains, amounts to a refusal to accept the fact of human finitude. Gardner argues that both Cavell and the poets he discusses reject skepticism's world-erasing conclusions but nonetheless honor the truth about the limits of knowledge that skepticism keeps alive. In calling attention to the limits of such acts as describing or remembering, the poets Gardner examines attempt to renew language by teasing a charged drama out of their inability to grasp with certainty. ø Juxtaposed with Gardner's readings of the work of the younger poets are his interviews with them. In many ways, these conversations are at the core of Gardner's book, demonstrating the wide-ranging implications of the struggles and mappings enacted in the poems. The interviews are themselves examples of the charged intimacy Gardner deals with in his readings.

The Films of Tim Burton Alison McMahan,2014-08-21 Most Tim Burton films are huge box-office successes, and several are already classics. The director's mysterious and eccentric public persona attracts a lot of attention, while the films themselves have been somewhat overlooked. Here, Alison McMahan redresses this imbalance through a close analysis of Burton's key films () and their industrial context. She argues that Burton has been a crucial figure behind many of the transformations taking place in horror, fantasy, and sci-fi films over the last two decades, and demonstrates how his own work draws on a huge range of artistic influences: the films of George Melies, surrealism, installation art, computer games, and many more. The Films of Tim Burton is the most in-depth analysis so far of the work of this unusual filmmaker - a director who has shown repeatedly that it is possible to reject mainstream Hollywood contentions while maintaining critical popularity and commercial success.

The Sheer Curtain Maria Elena Garza,2016-06-17 This short novel is dedicated to my wonderful family: my children, Cathy, Fernando, Phillip; my grandchildren Jozette, Alaena, Phoenix; and my husband, Max. The novel is especially written for an audience of young readers or adults who choose to have a child's imagination. It was such fun for me to develop the characters and scenes of this mystery. It all starts with a woman's silhouette that appears on the third-floor window of this old Victorian mansion. No one in the town of Sneila has ever seen her except when she stands behind the sheer curtain. The children of the town look forward to Halloween every year. The children together walk down the dirt road to the mansion that sits at the edge of town behind enormously tall trees and a black iron fence. Every Halloween, the children know that, in front of the mansion outside the gate, there will be a mysterious white cauldron filled with magic candies for each child. The candies are in baggies with each child's name written on the front of the baggie. How does she know every child's name? Where does this candy come from? The children agree that the candy is very different, like it's out of this world. These are only two of the mysteries that exist in the town of Sneila. Much mystery lives in the town of Sneila. The number of people in this town never changes. When one person dies, another is born. People who die are not buried. The number 8 appears throughout the town. Sometimes you have to add two digits to find the 8. The infinity symbol appears throughout the novel. Magic turtles surface and communicate with the two main characters, Samantha and Victoria. Flickering lights, hidden doors, basement, baskets, spaceships, magic turtles, mysterious bubbles, candles, and fairies create a magical kingdom. Wrinkles and gray hair are witnesses to times past. The surprise ending is sure to give you goose bumps! Other books from the author include the following: Sleepy Tears Laughing Tears Sleepy Tears Miss You Tears God's Love is Real (poetry book) Friends and Angels (poetry book) The Secret Meeting of the Sworceracs

From the East to the West Coast then back again, and when you think the story is over, watch out because it's just beginning when it continues to the beautiful island of Jamaica! Lauren is a twenty-something professional battling demons from her past that she just can't seem to slay. Even though she's on the fast track to success, haunting memories pop up to disturb her peace. Though the circumstances of her present life are very favorable, she struggles to understand why God allowed her to suffer through an unstable, derelict childhood. She meets Mark, a handsome young missionary and they share sparks! But afraid of rejection and believing she isn't good enough for him, she keeps her distance, not realizing that God has other plans for them both. When a family crisis interrupts her vacation and then she runs into Mark, Lauren is awed by the coincidence but still rejects his offer of help. Yet when they're thrown together in an earthquake and Lauren is hurt, she's left with no choice but to accept Mark's offer. Over the course of the next twenty-four hours, Lauren and Mark get to know each other and form a bond in a race against time to rescue her young niece. Lauren later learns that Mark has his own troubled history but they both hesitate to move forward with their relationship causing family members to decide to create another "coincidence" that has them traveling together to Jamaica where they find themselves on yet another adventure, but this one involves a child trafficking ring that not only puts Lauren's life at risk, but also the lives of three young girls. Join Lauren as she learns that there are no real "coincidences" and that we're all sinners in need of God's saving grace. Jello Salad Nicholas Blincoe,2016-04-04 A mob wife opens a London restaurant, serving a full banquet of mayhem and violence in this “riotously good read” by the author of Acid Casuals (Observer). They’re opening a new restaurant in London’s posh SoHo district. Susan Ball, a mob wife turned restaurateur, is funding the joint with money she stole from her notorious husband, Frank ‘Ballistic’ Ball. The cook is a former celebrity chef whose insatiable perversions were too hot for TV. And as for the Maitre D, his drug-fueled spiritual journey in Goa has certainly made him more unique, but it hasn’t made him any more trustworthy. This might sound like a recipe for disaster—but that’s just the first course. ‘This black comedy of modern bad manners aims at outrage and hits the bull’s eye every time . . . A must-read” –Val McDermid
