Internal Control U S Government Accountability Office (G,U. S. Government Accountability Office ,(2013-06 GAO analyzed the Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) efforts to correct weaknesses in its single-family housing appraisal program. GAO found that HUD: (1) selected appraisals for review without a systematic, statistical sample; (2) did not meet the requirements of its present review program; and (3) used fee appraisers to perform field reviews of other appraisers' work, despite indications that this practice increased the potential for fraud, waste, and abuse. GAO also found that HUD field offices: (1) overrode random computer selections of appraisers and assigned them manually without adequate supervision or documentation; (2) did not provide regularly scheduled training for fee appraisers; and (3) failed to terminate appraisers who were performing unsatisfactorily.

Mortgage Lending, Racial Discrimination, and Federal Policy John M. Goering, 1996 Whether or not there is discrimination in the mortgage lending market is one of the most extensively debated issues in the civil rights arena. Because many early studies were flawed and the results misinterpreted on both sides of the debate, there is little agreement as to the next essential steps in either research or enforcement. This comprehensive volume seeks to clarify the debate by including rigorous review of fair lending research, applied projects, and enforcement activities to date, as well as recommendations for research needed to resolve unanswered questions. The intent of the authors is to help the housing industry, regulators, advocates, and the research community to better understand the issue of discrimination in an important area of American life -- the right to take out a mortgage to buy a home based on one's credit worthiness, not on one's race or ethnic group.
