Anyway, where was I? Geoff Hill, 2008 A collection of some of the very best of the author's travel writing.

What You Really Need to Know about Accounting (in Less Than 100 Pages) Geoff Hill, Geoff Hill Cpa, 2011-03-26 What You REALLY Need to Know About Accounting is not designed for accountants - it's designed for you! It fills the gap between accounting textbooks, which focus heavily on bookkeeping, and books on investing, which focus heavily on analyzing a company from the outside. Written as an easy-to-understand guide, What You Really Need to Know About Accounting will teach you about: - financial statements and how to read them - everyday transactions - infrequent transactions that still affect most businesses - asset valuation; how accountants determine how much your stuff is worth - ratio analysis; using the information on financial statements to draw conclusions and make decisions There is also a companion website that includes knowledge-testing questions, and additional information on complex topics. After reading What You REALLY Need to Know About Accounting, you will be able to understand how your company's basic functions are expressed in financial statements, and how to use that information to start making better business decisions.

The Battle for Zimbabwe Geoff Hill, 2003 Zimbabwe??'s ruling party is currently experiencing its most intense economic and political challenge in its 20-year history. This book, written in an easy-to-read journalistic style, charts these troubled times.

Loudspeaker Modelling and Design Geoff Hill, 2018-09-03 In this book, Geoff Hill demonstrates modern software and hardware being applied to the processes behind loudspeaker design and modelling. Modern computing power has progressed to the point that such analyses are now practical for any interested individual or small company. Loudspeaker Modelling and Design: A Practical Introduction examines the process from initial concept through specifications and theoretical simulations and onto detailed design. It demonstrates the processes of design and specification, by using detailed simulations of a loudspeaker driver; sufficient to give re-assurance that a design is practical and will perform as expected. This book brings together many different strands of modelling from electro-magnetic through to mechanical and acoustic, without getting bogged down in theoretical discussions and arguments. This practice-based book shows the techniques used in designing modern loudspeakers and transducers.

What Happens After Mugabe? Geoff Hill, 2005 After 25 years in power, Robert Mugabe is under increasing pressure to step down and allow democratic reform in Zimbabwe. Amnesty International rates the country among the worst for torture and abuse of human rights, the Commonwealth has suspended Zimbabwe's membership, and even in Africa there is growing outrage at what some see as a rogue state. In the past five years, millions of words have been written about the tragedy -- including more than a dozen books -- but few have focused on what might happen when freedom comes. As things stand, schools and hospitals have collapsed, a third of the population lives in exile and 3 000 people die of AIDS every week. Once Africa's second-biggest exporter of food, 70 per cent of the country lives under conditions of famine in the wake of violent land reform. What will it take to rebuild Zimbabwe? This gripping, incisive book discusses many relevant issues and asks serious questions, including: - Will 4 million exiles go home to a country with 80 per cent unemployment? - Should there be war-crimes trials? - Can the economy be revived? -Where will the billions of dollars come from that are needed to put things right? What Happens After Mugabe is meticulously researched, with material drawn from hundreds of interviews inside Zimbabwe and among exile communities in Britain, the US and South Africa.

Where Was I Again? Geoff Hill, 2020-02-23 Geoff Hill has won multiple national and international awards for his travel writing. The best of the best is in this brilliant collection - now updated for the second edition with great tales from Flanders, Vietnam, Oman, the Himalayas, Brazil and Mongolia in -40C wearing a pair of sparkly tights. Naturally. What the critics say: Geoff Hill is a comic genius. I laughed until I cried, my nose bled and I lost control of my bowels. I may well have to kill him when I meet him. Patrick Taylor, author of New York Times best seller An Irish Country Doctor Incredibly funny. I loved it. I was laughing out loud on trains in a thoroughly embarrassing fashion and going to sleep with a smile on my face after the completely anarchic tales of killer dormice, Xavier Furtwangler and how not to get eaten by bears. Melissa Shales, Chairman, British Guild of Travel Writers Geoff Hill has travel writing genius in his very soul. The funniest travel writer in our business. Julie Shmueli and David Rosenberg, organisers of Travelex UK travel writing awards An outstanding writing talent with a wicked sense of fun. Brilliant writing, genuinely and originally funny, and a supremely entertaining read. Martyn Lewis CBE, broadcaster One of the most talented travel writers ever to cross my path. Melissa Shales He has wonderful views on life, a great turn of phrase and a great sense of humour. His off-beat observations and zany outlook on life are laugh-out-loud funny. John Mullin, The Independent A brilliant read, a book I simply couldn't put down. Ted Simon meets Flann O'Brien, it's a cracker. Dave Myers, BBC's Hairy Biker The most inspiring and laugh-out-loud funny travelogue of the last fifty years. Garbhan Downey, Verbal Magazine The funniest travel writer in print. Tom Adair, The Scotsman Brilliant. Brian Page, Mensa magazine

Way to Go Geoff Hill, 2005 Way to Go brings together two epic motorcycle journeys, from Belfast to Delhi on a loyal Enfield, and from Chicago to LA on a Harley Davidson. A thoughtful, hilarious, off-beat adventure story by award-winning travel journalist Geoff Hill.

National Geographic Bird Coloration Geoffrey Edward Hill, 2010 Why is a cardinal red and a bluebird blue? How has color camouflage evolved? These are just a few of the fascinating questions explored in this work on coloration and plumage, and their key role in avian life. 200 full-color photos.

Draugr Geoff Hill, 2016-11-23 Shipwrecked in the icy waters of Vinland, Leif Haraldson and his Viking crew shelter in the abandoned long-hall of Eirik Blacktooth, battling to survive the elements and each other. A Viking Ghost story, perfect by the fire on a winter's night.

Jack Geoff Hill, 2012-09-27 Jack is an overachiever with ambitious plans for himself. But life has a way of veering in odd directions, and for Jack, this means many a twist on the road to achieving his goals. His talents at university helping other students, whilst also making money are pitted against acquaintances from varied backgrounds, from Lynette running a male escort agency to the hotel business in Brisbane. His purpose built hotel and the people who pass through it create humoyous and sad episodes in his life especially Moses and his unusual limo. A lively and absorbing story that will have you eagerly following Jack's life, his business and his loves.

Bird Coloration Geoffrey Edward Hill, Kevin J. McGraw, 2006-03 In this sumptuously illustrated companion volume to Bird Coloration, Volume 1: Mechanisms and Measurements, the authors explain the function of the colorful displays of birds and examine the factors that shape the evolution of color signals.

From Riches to Rags Barton Hill History Group, Geoff Hill, 2006-10-18 Geoff Hill's autobiography describes his rise from the back streets of Brierley Hill during the 1930s to the running of a successful Black Country business, and then back to rags again - or the rag trade - when he founded a chain of charity shops. In between were his stints as a gnome vendor, champion cyclist, pub landlord and encyclopaedia salesman. Geoff Hill was born in 1927 in Brierley Hill. He easily obtained a scholarship to King Edward VI School in Stourbridge, but had to leave at the age of fifteen in order to contribute to the family income. Geoff's passion for cycling led him to take a job in a bicycle shop, and to semi-professional cycling: at the age of seventeen he became the British Under Eighteen Champion. This obsession with bike racing continued until Geoff was called up for National Service as a 'Bevin Boy'. Hard physical labour down the pit brought with it back problems, bringing an end to his cycling career. Restless, and always searching for a new challenge, Geoff spent the late '40s and '50s in a bewildering variety of jobs - from selling the Encyclopedia Britannica, Bettaware and typewriters to supervising industrial canteens, running a pub and a grocery shop, and even selling garden gnomes. Finally he settled down with the opening of Geoff Hill Electrical - now the Black Country's most successful independent electrical retailer. Geoff has always supported local charities, primarily Mary Stephens' Hospice. Under his guidance the Hospice Trading Company was set up; it now runs a chain of charity shops which have raised over GBP1 million. He has recently set up the Geoff Hill Charitable Trust, devoted to charitable work in the Black Country - and despite being semi-retired these days Geoff is busier than he's ever been.

Angel Street Geoff Hill, 2017-04-15 An Irishman abandoned by his wife who goes travelling to leave the scene of his loss. A neurotic Dutch girl with a dark secret. A Finnish woman who has moved to Los Angeles to find her father, her only clue a name and number scribbled by her mother just before she died in childbirth. Three people, two trying to let go of their past and one trying to find hers, whose lives are woven together in an epic tale of love, sex and death spanning two continents and the 20th Century. A tale which moves inextricably towards a heartstopping climax on Christmas Eve. What the critics said about Geoff Hill's other books: Smith, a novel Hill has a voice all his own - both lyrical and lunatic - which casts the world in a new light. Few first novels achieve as much. Mark Sanderson, Independent on Sunday Quietly hilarious. An offbeat and imaginative debut. Lois Rathbone, The Times I found it fascinating, was bowled over by it, and read it at one sitting. It is pure writing. Vincent Banville, Sunday Press Dialogue so real, it's frightening. For a first novel, it is breathtakingly good. Casey Evans, Irish Tatler Weeks later, you're still haunted by it...exerts a power that is quite astounding. Anthony

Jordan, Books Ireland Way to Go He has wonderful views on life, a great turn of phrase and a great sense of humour. His off-beat observations and zany outlook on life are laugh-out-loud funny. John Mullin, The Independent Shift your arse, Kerouac, Geoff Hill's on the road - faster, funnier and still alive. Colin Bateman Brilliant. Mensa Magazine (and they should know) The Road to Gobblers Knob The most inspiring and laugh-out-loud funny travelogue of the last fifty years. The yearning of an unmitigated adventurer leaps off every line. Garbhan Downey, Verbal Magazine A brilliant read, a book I simply couldn't put down. Ted Simon meets Flann O'Brien, it's a cracker. Dave Myers, BBC's Hairy Biker Even funnier than the last one. How is this possible? Colin Bateman The clash of the reality of biking and the romance of the journey is what I enjoyed most and Hill's style, honed over years entertaining and surprising readers, suited it perfectly. This is a great yarn. Gary Quinn, The Irish Times Anyway, Where Was I? Geoff Hill's alternative A-Z of the world Geoff Hill is a comic genius. I laughed until I cried, my nose bled and I lost control of my bowels. I may well have to kill him when I meet him. Patrick Taylor, author of New York Times best seller An Irish Country Doctor Incredibly funny. I loved it. I was laughing out loud on trains in a thoroughly embarrassing fashion and going to sleep with a smile on my face after the completely anarchic tales of killer dormice, Xavier Furtwangler and how not to get eaten by bears. Melissa Shales, Chairman, British Guild of Travel Writers Oz: around Australia on a Triumph More trees should die to support this book. It makes Ewan and Charley look like George and Mildred. Colin Bateman

The Butler's Son Geoff Hill, 2016-09-14 Max Edwards was eighteen when he saw the woman he loved and the man he wanted to kill. Those words open the new novel from critically acclaimed author Geoff Hill: the gripping, dramatic and uplifting story of Max, the self-educated son of the butler at a grand estate in rural Ireland who, weeks before the First World War, falls in love with the Japanese bride of the Major who owns the estate. Max's impossible dream is soon torn to shreds by the horror of the Battle of the Somme. After those terrible days, a chance meeting with RFC commander Hugh Boom Trenchard in the hospital leads to his transfer to the Royal Flying Corps. He finds his place in the air over the war torn battlefields as a pilot in the RFC. Amid the constant danger of falling to death in flames or being ripped apart by the Germans' Spandau machine guns, he tussles with legends like Baron von Richthofen - and forms the strangest of alliances with German ace Werner Voss. Stand by for a rollercoaster ride, with love, disaster, action, humor, death in the air, spies, a beautiful French nurse and Max's best friend, Bentley Priory, who's as devoted to his conquests in the bedroom as to those in the air. You'll laugh, cry and eventually applaud the unquenchable nature of the human spirit as Max's transition from boy to man is forged in the searing crucible of war.

Mitonuclear Ecology Geoffrey E. Hill,2019-04-30 This novel text provides a concise synthesis of how the interactions between mitochondrial and nuclear genes have played a major role in shaping the ecology and evolution of eukaryotes. The foundation for this new focus on mitonuclear interactions originated from research in biochemistry and cell biology laboratories, although the broader ecological and evolutionary implications have yet to be fully explored. The imperative for mitonuclear coadaptation is proposed to be a major selective force in the evolution of sexual reproduction and two mating types in eukaryotes, in the formation of species, in the evolution of ornaments and sexual selection, in the process of adaptation, and in the evolution of senescence. The book highlights the importance of mitonuclear coadaptation to the evolution of complex life and champions mitonuclear ecology as an important subdiscipline in ecology and evolution.
