Horror Island Amusement Park Drac Von Stoller,2012-10-12 What was once in every child's dream is now just an echo in the wind of a past gone by. Horror Island Amusement Park had the largest Ferrous Wheel, the biggest roller coaster, and a beautiful view of the ocean. After many years, of weather, lack of funding, and dwindling attendance, the amusement park was shut down and boarded up. But that wasn't the only reason for the decrease in attendance and the closing of the park. Reports of poor maintenance on the rides were the cause of many deaths and the major cause of shutting down the amusement park. Thirty years later, there were reports of strange things going on at the abandoned amusement park. At night the rides started up on their own and the funny thing was, is that the park had been out of operation for over thirty years without any power. The police were called out to the park many times to investigate, but when they located the power supply all the wires were ripped out of the fuse boxes. The police also reported hearing laughter and voices as though the amusement park was still in full operation. A sign was put on the front gate of the amusement park which read No trespassing! Any violators will be prosecuted. A local ghost-hunting group decided they would try and solve the strange goings on at the Horror Island Amusement Park. They called themselves The Ghost Detectors Society. The Ghost Detectors Society consisted of Darren, Karen, and Steve. They all thought solving the strange happenings would bring them fame, but they should have just stuck to doing the small stuff. Darren picked an overcast day to set the mood of the investigation. The fame-struck ghost hunters met up at the amusement park at the stroke of midnight. Everything was just as perfect as any ghost hunter would have wanted it to be, overcast and windy. Everyone had all their ghost-hunting equipment, in their briefcases ready for the big event to unfold. As they approached the gate, Darren said, Everyone check your equipment to make sure everything is operating properly. Karen chimed in, Darren, do you think we're going to find any proof, or is this just a bunch of made-up stuff to bring curious ghost hunters like us to make fools out of us. Darren exclaimed, If we don't find any evidence we can at least say we believe that what we are doing as ghost hunters is worth the effort. Not every ghost hunter finds evidence, but when they do, it gives other ghost hunters like ourselves, hope that there are unexplainable things that make it worth looking into. I don't care what anybody thinks of what we are doing is just a waste of time, if we didn't believe, we all would be at home playing video games and there would never be such things as ghost hunters. Thank goodness there are believers like us willing to take the risk of tapping into the unknown. I don't think any one of us would rather be at home playing video games. Let’s just be happy. Our ghost-hunting dreams have brought us closer together as friends. I believe we were brought here for a reason and that reason is to find ghosts. Steve, is your equipment ready? Yes, all my batteries are at full charge. What about you Karen? Is your equipment good to go? Yes, everything is fine. I sure hope we get some good video footage. These young ghost hunters are about to stir up some ghost activity that should have stayed buried in the abandoned amusement park forever.
