Global Visions Jeremy Brecher, John Brown Childs, Jill Cutler, 1993 We live in an era of globalization in which pollution, satellite broadcasts, and products from the global factory stream across national borders. Today's globalization is mostly globalization-from-above - an effort to expand the wealth and power of the wealthy and powerful. In Global Vision scholars and activists from more than twenty countries in all parts of the globe explore a startling alternative: globalization-from-below.

Traveling Back Susan McWilliams, Susan Jane McWilliams, 2014-03 What does it mean to think globally? Susan McWilliams argues that to understand politics in our 'new world,' we should revisit one of the oldest themes in political theory: travel. This title uncovers the rich travel-story tradition of political theorizing and shows how it helps to answer today's toughest political questions.

The Global Politics of Contemporary Travel Writing Debbie Lisle, 2006-11-02 To what extent do best-selling travel books, such as those by Paul Theroux, Bill Bryson, Bruce Chatwin and Michael Palin, tell us as much about world politics as newspaper articles, policy documents and press releases? Debbie Lisle argues that the formulations of genre, identity, geopolitics and history at work in contemporary travel writing are increasingly at odds with a cosmopolitan and multicultural world in which 'everybody travels'. Despite the forces of globalization, common stereotypes about 'foreignness' continue to shape the experience of modern travel. The Global Politics of Contemporary Travel Writing, first published in 2006, is concerned with the way contemporary travelogues engage with, and try to resolve, familiar struggles about global politics such as the protection of human rights, the promotion of democracy, the management of equality within multiculturalism and the reduction of inequality. This is a thoroughly interdisciplinary book that draws from international relations, literary theory, political theory, geography, anthropology and history.

The Global Citizen Global Citizen, 2014-05-01 The Global Citizen, French Bureau's Volume 1: Issue 1 (Full Color Edition). The Global Citizen is an independent student-run organization whose primary purpose is to provide one of the few venues in the world through which the world's young scholars can publish exemplary work pertaining to contentious issues in international affairs. This issue includes: LE TERRORISME ISLAMISTE EN AFRIQUE, Joslain DJERIA (Tchad) LE VOTE: FACTEUR DE STABILISATION OU DE DESTABILISATION DE L'ETAT? PERSPECTIVES POUR LES ETATS AFRICAINS, Josue Djekotar NGARYANAN (Tchad) VERS LA MISE EN PLACE D'UN DIALOGUE ISLAMO-CHRETIEN AU SAHEL, Nadege Agouda KEMEHALO (Togo) et Roumanatou Mahamadou SALIFOU (Niger) L'EXCISION, UNE PRATIQUE EN REGRESSION ?, Esperance SAMBALA (Congo) LE CONSENSUS DE WASHINGTON ET LA STRUCTURE DU MONDE DE L'AVENIR, Winston REID (Etats Unis) et Isabon THAMM (Etats Unis)

Globalization and Media Jack Lule, 2017-11-17 The fully updated third edition of this lively and accessible book argues for the central role of media in understanding globalization. Indeed, Jack Lule convincingly shows that globalization could not have occurred without media. From earliest times, humans have used media to explore, settle, and globalize their world. In our day, media has made the world progressively “smaller” as nations and cultures come into increasing contact. Decades ago Marshall McLuhan prophesied that media technology would transform the world into a “global village.” Slowly, fitfully, his vision is being fulfilled. The global village, however, is not the blissful utopia that McLuhan predicted. Nor, in a more modern formulation, is the world flat, with playing fields leveled and opportunities for all. Instead, Lule argues, globalization and media are combining to create a divided world of gated communities and ghettos, borders and boundaries, suffering and surfeit, beauty and decay, surveillance and violence. By breaking down the economic, cultural, and political impact of media, and through a rich set of case studies from around the globe, the author describes a global village of Babel—invoking the biblical town punished for its vanity by seeing its citizens scattered, its language confounded, and its destiny shaped by strife.

Exchanges Trevor R. Getz, Richard Joseph Hoffman, Jarbel Rodriguez, 2008 This impressive collection of readings illustrates that the history of the world is as much about the relationships among societies as it is about transformations and continuities within societies. Exchanges: A Global History Reader is designed as an introduction to the discipline of world history. Unlike other source collections, Exchanges helps students look beyond strictly delineated regionalism and chronological structures to understand history as a product of ongoing debate. Structured around a series of interconnected themes and debates, and pairing both primary and secondary sources, Exchanges challenges both students and teachers to rethink history.

Offering a global perspective of world history, this collection provides a concise, easy-to-read selection of documents and secondary readings.

Readings in Global History Anthony Snyder, Sherri West, 1993-08-01

Planet TV Lisa Parks, Shanti Kumar, 2003 From the 1967 live satellite program Our World to MTV music videos in Indonesia, from French television in Senegal to the global syndication of African American sitcoms, and from representations of terrorism on German television to the international Teletubbies phenomenon, TV lies at the nexus of globalization and transnational culture. Planet TV provides an overview of the rapidly changing landscape of global television, combining previously published essays by pioneers of the study of television with new work by cutting-edge television scholars who refine and extend intellectual debates in the field. Organized thematically, the volume explores such issues as cultural imperialism, nationalism, postcolonialism, transnationalism, ethnicity and cultural hybridity. These themes are illuminated by concrete examples and case studies derived from empirical work on global television industries, programs, and audiences in diverse social, historical, and cultural contexts. Developing a new critical framework for exploring the political, economic, sociological and technological dimensions of television cultures, and countering the assumption that global television is merely a result of the current dominance of the West in world affairs, Planet TV demonstrates that the global dimensions of television were imagined into existence very early on in its contentious history. Parks and Kumar have assembled the critical moments in television's past in order to understand its present and future. Contributors include Ien Ang, Arjun Appadurai, Jose B. Capino, Michael Curtin, Jo Ellen Fair, John Fiske, Faye Ginsburg, R. Harindranath, Timothy Havens, Edward S. Herman, Michele Hilmes, Olaf Hoerschelmann, Shanti Kumar, Moya Lockett, Robert McChesney, Divya C. McMillin, Nicholas Mirzoeff, David Morley, Hamid Naficy, Lisa Parks, James Schwoch, John Sinclair, R. Anderson Sutton, Serra Tinic, John Tomlinson, and Mimi White.

The Poorer Nations Vijay Prashad, 2013-07-30 In The Darker Nations, Vijay Prashad provided an intellectual history of the Third World and told the story of the rise and fall of the Non-Aligned Movement. With The Poorer Nations, Prashad takes up the story where he left it. Since the '70s, the countries of the Global South have struggled to express themselves politically. Prashad analyzes the failures of neoliberalism, as well as the rise of the BRIC countries, the Group of 12, the World Social Forum, the Latin American revolutionary revival—in short, all the efforts to create alternatives to the neoliberal project advanced militarily by the US and its allies, among whom number the IMF, the World Bank, the WTO, and other economic instruments of the powerful. A true global history, The Poorer Nations is informed by interviews with leading players such as senior UN officials, as well as Prashad's pioneering research into archives of the Julius Nyerere-led South Commission.

The Three Waves of Globalization Robert Thomas Robertson, 2003 Globalization necessitates a new reading of the human story. Its origins, Robbie Robertson argues, lie in human interconnections that have existed since the earliest times and which assumed global proportions 500 years ago. Since then, three consecutive waves of globalization have radically transformed human societies. Managing this revolutionary change has proved difficult. Globalization is destabilizing.
