Barcelona startup Mar Galtés,2020-03-14 Barcelona, la ciudad de las Olimpiadas, del diseño, de Gaudí, del Barça, se ha convertido en el hub digital y tecnológico más importante del sur de Europa. ¿Qué hay detrás de este fenómeno? Este libro es una crónica de historias de personas (de empresas, de instituciones) que durante más de dos décadas se interrelacionan; de algunos éxitos sonados y de muchos fracasos desapercibidos. Es la historia del connecting the dots que hace que el concepto ecosistema tenga sentido. Internet empezó a desarrollarse de la mano de tecnólogos, superó el pinchazo de la burbuja del 2000 y en muy pocos años ha cambiado la vida de las personas y de las empresas. Startups y emprendedores están hoy presentes en la primera línea de la agenda de innovación. La periodista Mar Galtés vio nacer el ecosistema tecnológico de Barcelona, mucho antes de que existiera consciencia de ecosistema. Con sus crónicas en La Vanguardia ha explicado y dado visibilidad a la nueva cultura del emprendimiento tecnológico, a los casos de éxito y role models que lideran esta transformación. Ahora nos presenta esta foto global de lo que ha sucedido durante más de veinte años en los que —sin que hubiera ningún master plan organizado— instituciones políticas y sociales, educativas, corporaciones, startups, pero sobre todo, personas, han sumado iniciativas que han llevado a Barcelona a destacar en el mapa europeo de la tecnología y la innovación.

Rehabitar en nueve episodios, 2012 Este libro reúne los nueve catálogos de los nueve episodios del proyecto re.habitar. Un proyecto que dio lugar a seis exposiciones en la sala La Arquería de Nuevos Ministerios de Madrid, desde inicios de 2010 hasta finales de 2011. Sus contenidos van del posicionamiento personal a la mudanza, de la casa a la calle, de la esfera privada al espacio público. En estos catálogos, como en las exposiciones que resumieron, se han reunido una cantidad significativa de ejemplos que abarcan todas las escalas de la arquitectura y que pueden ser tomados como una constatación de que el hecho de volver a usar la casa y la calle no constituye ninguna novedad. En cambio, sí lo es la consciencia de volver a poner este uso en valor y el sentido que hoy adquiere este posicionamiento. Parafraseando a Ernst Gombrich, lo que está por venir condiciona lo que ha llegado antes. De este modo, lo que vemos hoy influye en la manera de ver lo anterior. Así, desde la óptica de re.habitar, volvemos a mirar acontecimientos y propuestas que ya habían sido archivadas para, con ojos renovados, leer ahora en ellas un mensaje que antes no podíamos leer. Sea por la distancia o por la acumulación de nuevos acontecimientos, el hecho es que ahora forman parte de un discurso actual....--Introduction.

Making Competitive Cities Sako Musterd,Alan Murie,2011-02-02 The book investigates the impact on the competitiveness of cities developing creative industries (arts, media, entertainment, creative business services, architects, publishers, designers) and knowledge-intensive industries (ICT, R&D, finance, law). It provides significant new knowledge to the theoretical and practical understanding of the conditions necessary to stimulate creative knowledge cities. The editors compare the socio-economic developments, experiences and strategies in 13 urban regions across Europe: Amsterdam, Barcelona, Birmingham, Budapest, Dublin, Helsinki, Leipzig, Milan, Munich, Poznan, Riga, Sofia and Toulouse. These have different histories and roles; include capital and non-capital cities of different sizes; represent cities with different economic structures; and different cultural, political and welfare state traditions. Through this wide set of examples, Making Competitive Cities informs the debate about creative and knowledge-intensive industries, economic development, and competitiveness policies. It focuses on which metropolitan regions have a better chance to develop as creative knowledge regions and which do not, as well as investigating why this is so and what can policy do to influence change. Chapter authors from thirteen European institutions rigorously evaluate, reformulate and empirically test assumptions about cities and their potential for attracting creative and knowledge-intensive industries. As well as a systematic empirical comparison of developments related to these industries, the book examines the pathways that cities have followed and surveys both the negative and positive impacts of different prevailing conditions. Special Features: Analyses link between knowledge-intensive sectors and urban competitiveness Offers evidence from 13 European urban regions drawn from a major research project Establishes a new benchmark for academic and policy debates in a fast-moving field

Branded Alissa Quart,2008-12-17 Generation Y has grown up in an age of the brand, bombarded by name products. In Branded, Alissa Quart illuminates the unsettling new reality of marketing to teenagers, as well as the quieter but no less worrisome forms of teen branding: the teen consultants who work for corporations in exchange for product; the girls obsessed with cosmetic surgery who will do anything to look like women on TV; and those teens simply obsessed with admission into a name-brand college. We also meet the pockets of kids attempting to turn the tables on the cocksure corporations that so cynically strive to manipulate them. Chilling, thought-provoking, even darkly amusing, Branded brings one of the most disturbing and least talked about results of contemporary business and culture to the fore-and ensures that we will never look at today's youth the same way again.

Cerdá Ildefonso Cerdá,1999 Spanish civil engineer, Ildefonso Cerda, invented the term 'urbanization' in 1860-61. His theory was the first in modern times to focus methodically on the city as a construction, its evolution and the workings and interaction of its constituent parts. This book is split into 5 sections: The Technical, Administrative, Legal, Economic and Political Bases of Urbanization. It is the first time Cerda's work has been published in English.

Tabula Plena Bryony Roberts,2016 Edited by Bryony Roberts, a collaboration of the Oslo School of Architecture and Design and Columbia University's Graduate School of Architecture, Planning, and Preservation In contrast to tabula rasa urbanism, this book considers strategies for tabula plena -- urban sites that are full of existing buildings of multiple time periods. Such dense sites prompt designers to work between the fields of architecture, historic preservation, and urban planning, developing methods for collaborative authorship and interlocking architectural forms. The book grew from a collaboration between the Oslo School of Architecture and Design and Columbia University's Graduate School of Architecture, Planning and Preservation on the planning of the government quarter in Oslo. Emerging from this process, the book asks larger questions about how we practice, teach, and theorise engagement with existing architecture on an urban scale. It contains a compilation of short essays addressing theoretical questions, a sampling of design projects offering different July formal strategies for architectural design, and a series of discussions about pedagogical strategies. 149 images

Stem Cells and Cancer Sadhan Majumder,2014-12-03 Cancer is a primary cause of human mortality worldwide. Despite decades of basic and clinical research, the outcome for most cancer patients is still dismal. Some stumbling blocks to developing effective therapy include the heterogeneity of cancer tissues, the lack of knowledge about the critical molecular mechanisms in cancer tissues (which are typically aberrant compared with mechanisms in normal tissue), and the lack of good mechanism-based therapeutic approaches. The recent findings that most cancers contain a small fraction of self-renewing, differentiation-blocked stem cell-like cells (cancer stem cells) and that it is these cells—and not the major bulk of the tissue—that are the root cause for cancer initiation and metastasis have also highlighted the need to change our approach to cancer therapy. The objectives of this book, therefore, would be to impart up-to-date information about the role of stem cells in the development of normal and cancerous tissue, the mechanisms that differentiate normal from cancerous functions, and the use of these findings in developing mechanism-based therapies.
