F.W. Blanchard Beverly Blanchard Nelson, Pamela T. Lundquist, 2007-02-14 This memoir is the story of our uncle, Frederick Woodward Blanchard, and of the family members who supported and cherished him. Fred, a Boston native, came to Los Angeles (population 40,000) in 1886. A visionary, he quickly entered deeply into the life of his adopted city, and he began a forty-year love affair with the City of Angels that continued right up to the time of his death, in 1928. With its Mediterranean climate, pristine coastline, rolling hills, and majestic mountains, Los Angeles served as a fertile setting for Fred's artistic sensibilities and dynamic leadership skills. And he looked at the cultural landscape of Los Angeles much the way an artist looks at a blank canvas. He saw limitless opportunities for beautifying and culturally enriching the city. In 1907, Fred predicted that Los Angeles would one day become the largest city on the Pacific Coast. What Italy is to the arts and music, he said, so will Los Angeles become in time. Why not? With a climate which is so conducive to song and so ripens the artistic temperament, I believe Los Angeles will become one of the leading art centers in the country. Fred worked tirelessly to advance his vision for the city. He developed and promoted a wide range of musical, cultural, and civic activities. He established Blanchard Hall, which contained the first art gallery west of Chicago. He served as a founder and first president of the Hollywood Bowl. He served also as chairman of the Good Roads Commission, and he's known as the father of the cluster lighting system. His influence can still be felt from Lankershim to Hill Street, from Cahuenga Pass to Hollywood, and from Broadway to the Bowl. Fred was a dreamer, but he was also a leader who could turn dreams into projects that served all the city and all of its citizens. His name and his dreams and his works live on—indelibly imprinted on Los Angeles history, never to be forgotten.

Hollywood Bowl Roger Cottrell,2008-06-16 Tobias Slaughter - ex Pinkerton, Communist writer of screenplays and now Private Investigator. Sounds like an interesting, and dangerous, man to know. In this masterful blend of historical fact and alternate reality, Roger Cottrell follows the life of Slaughter through three decades and two continents, mixing murders of union officials with the McCarthy witchhunts and the plot to destabilize the British Labour Government of the 1960s. In another world, this might have happened. In this world, much of it did.

Hollywood Bowl Revision 1 Roger Cottrell, 2013-08 In the 1950's, in McCarthyite Hollywood, former Pinkerton and hack screen writer Toby Slaughter failed to prevent the murder of his Mexican lover at the hands of a powerful Hollywood cabal. More than a decade later, in 1960's Britain, he is a washed out gumshoe, like a cliché from one of his own films offered a chance to redeem himself by tracking down missing heiress Susan Featherstone.
