Connect, communicate, collaborate will provide the knowledge, inspiration and motivation to get you started.

Virtual Worlds Judy O'Connell, Dean Groom, 2010 Each year, there are more and more avatars in rich virtual environments. These immersive worlds - where the world within the screen becomes both the object and the site of interaction - are on the increase, matching the promise of technology with the creative minds of students. Educators, keen to incorporate the evolving literacy and information needs of 21st century learners, will want to understand the opportunities provided by multi-user virtual environments (MUVEs), massively multiplayer online role-playing games (MMORPGs), and 3D immersive worlds, so as to be able to create more interactive library, educational, and cultural projects. The challenge is to accept that these interactive environments are here to stay and that schools can, and should, embrace learning in virtual worlds. (The Learning in a Changing World series by ACER Press addresses how the process of learning is evolving, including the array of resources available in the digital age, the changing curriculum, and the different teaching strategies needed in order to use new media and technologies. The series presents core areas for teachers, librarians, and school leaders to consider for 21st century learning which are: the digital world, virtual worlds, curriculum integration, resourcing, and the physical environment. All are essential elements to enable and empower students to be lifelong learners and active participants in society.)

Designing the Learning Environment Susan La Marca, 2010 The school library in the 21st century - Reflective learning spaces - Collaborative learning spaces - Resource spaces - Resource management and other spaces - Essential design considerations.

Resourcing for curriculum innovation June Wall, Sandra Ryan, 2010-10-01 Resourcing for student learning since the advent of the digital age has become more complex and more challenging for school libraries. This book provides both an approach to developing school library collections and a balanced view of the types of resources required for student learning.
