This book illustrates this process by maps of London; and offers a panorama of London's history by focusing on its maps.

London James Cheshire, Oliver Uberti, 2014 Which borough of London is the happiest? Where are the city's tweeting hot spots? How many animals does the fire brigade save each year? Which London residents have left their mark on history? Where are London's most haunted houses (and pubs)? What makes London the information capital? Geographer James Cheshire and designer Oliver Uberti could tell you, but they'd rather show you. Combining data with stunning design, this book shows us the city as we've never seen it before—from who lives the longest to how flights stack over Heathrow, from 'The Knowledge' of a cabbie to the territories of London's thirteen football tribes. The London's Environment Julian Hunt, 2005-05-06 This comprehensive volume opens with an introductory editorial giving a general review of London's environment and its prospects for a sustainable future. The subsequent chapters are written by experts on architecture, planning, air pollution, biodiversity, transport, rivers, parks, aesthetic aspects of London's landscape, politics, health, and economics. The highly topical material authoritatively describes the major recent developments that have greatly affected London's environment and in some ways have set the city on a path towards a more sustainable future. This progress includes changes in the law (GLA act), politics (adopting sustainability as a political goal), policies on waste disposal (no more landfills), housing areas, building development (e.g. Canary Wharf), traffic management (congestion charges), policies for enhancing biodiversity, transport infrastructure (cars, railways), and managing the risk of floods and other disasters (in response to climate change). The book shows how these policies and practical developments interact, and therefore need to be understood by considering them as a whole. A postscript by the Deputy Mayor of London, Nicky Gavron, is included summarising London's environmental policies that have been developed since the conference on "London Environment and Future" was held on September 18-19, 2002. Contents: World Contexts: London's Urban Renaissance (R Rogers) Sustainability of London's Environment and the World Context (M Meacher) Environmental Developments and Perceptions: Environmental Strategies for London (D Goode) The Air Over London (H ApSimon) London's Water Supplies (R S Wotton & H Evans) The Royal Parks and Their Role in a Sustainable City (W Weston) Planning and Politics: Dealing with Disasters (D J Parker & E C Penning-Roswell) Civilising Transport (D Banister & E Duxbury) A London Fit for Pirates (J Glancey) London's Governance and Sustainability (T Travers) and other papers Readership: Students, instructors, researchers, engineers, medical doctors, businessmen, and general readers with broad interests in environmental issues, including the scientific, policy and community aspects. Key Features: No other environmental book conveys the recent developments in London, or attempts to relate them to the environmental and general history of the city This book will be useful in the academic world for students and lectures and it will also be useful for local and national government and politics having to make decisions about sustainable development and the environment The unique overview provided here should also be useful to consultants, businesses and lawyers working on urban environmental/sustainability issues
