Photo Therapy Motivation and Wisdom Rick

Sammon,2019-09-06 Unlike Rick Sammon's 39 other best-selling and photo-rich books, Photo Therapy Motivation and Wisdom - Discovering the Power of Pictures, has no photographs between the covers. Yet, Rick feels as though it is his most important work. He trusts this book will make you think - hard - about your photography, and about how using your brain, the best photo accessory, will help you become a better photographer. Or as stated by famed black-and-white landscape photographer Ansel Adams, The single most important component of a camera is the twelve inches behind it. It's not that Rick is tired of having to lug around a camera, as Lewis Hine said, it's just that he thinks the motivational and inspirational message of this book is better expressed without showing his own pictures. Rather, in reading the 35,000-word text, he'd like you to imagine your own pictures - and potential pictures - while he is describing a situation, process, technique, feeling or emotion. Chapters include: Emotional Intelligence for Photographers, Seeing vs. Looking, Creating Your Own Reality, It's Never Too Late to Be What You Might Have Been, Light and Color Therapy, Learning is Health, and What Does Your Photography Mean to You? The book also includes more than 20 missions that you can accept in your quest to expand your photographic horizons. This very personal book is filled with Rick's photo and life wisdom - wisdom he has gained by spending almost an entire lifetime - starting in the late 1950's with developing pictures in his parents' basement - involved in photography in many forms and fashions. You will find many inspirational quotes in this book. One of Rick's favorites: When you are through changing, you are through. - Bruce Barton

Motivation - The Gender Perspective of Young People's Images of Science, Engineering and Technology (SET) Apl. Prof. Dr. Felizitas Sagebiel,2013-09-18 The authors discuss individual and societal factors which influence the gender biased image of science, engineering and technology (SET) prevalent in young people. From different angles the authors investigate the consequences of this often unattractive but also partly obsolete image for gendered study and occupational choices of girls and boys. Besides peers, school and media as main influencing socialisation instances the contributions focus on young people's selfconcept regarding the development of gendered attitudes towards SET. Further this book includes approaches and concepts of inclusion measures aiming on changing the image of SET and attracting young people, and especially girls, for these study and job fields.

Daily Strengths for Daily Needs ,2010

Drive Daniel H. Pink,2011-04-05 The New York Times bestseller that gives readers a paradigm-shattering new way to think about motivation from the author of When: The Scientific Secrets of Perfect Timing Most people believe that the best way to motivate is with rewards like money—the carrot-and-stick approach. That's a mistake, says Daniel H. Pink (author of To Sell Is Human: The Surprising Truth About Motivating Others). In this provocative and persuasive new book, he asserts that the secret to high performance and satisfaction—at work, at school, and at home—is the deeply human need to direct our own lives, to learn and create new things, and to do better by ourselves and our world. Drawing on four decades of scientific research on human motivation, Pink exposes the mismatch between what science knows and what business does—and how that affects every aspect of life. He examines the three elements of true motivation—autonomy, mastery, and purpose—and offers smart and surprising techniques for putting these into action in a unique book that will change how we think and transform how we live.

Motivation in a Minute Jerald Simon, 2017-02-28 In this book Jerald Simon has included short motivational messages with images to inspire individuals of all ages to do and be their best. Motivation matters We all need to hear words of encouragement to remind us of what matters most in life. We can, if we let ourselves, become distracted with work, schedules, meetings, deadlines, hobbies, social media and hundreds of other seemingly good and important activities. We have advanced and improved so much in so many areas of life that we have been pushed to become busier instead of truly simplifying our lives. Our calendars are booked with endless appointments and we often go from one event to the next with little or no down time in between.

Our day to day schedules have often become more of a distraction to us and often cause us more stress, worry, guilt, and anxiety than they should. It is time to simplify our lives, scale back if we need to, and refocus and recommit to our purpose and mission in life. We must dare to live our dreams and do what we have always wanted to but never knew how. Motivation In a Minute is a collection of Motivational Messages written by Jerald Simon to help others find their purpose and mission in life. These vignettes are meant to be short inspirational thoughts and ideas designed to help others think about where they are in life and where they would like to go, what they would like to do, accomplish, and become. The book is presented with a motivational picture on each even numbered page of the book, and an accompanying quote that is followed up with questions, tips, ideas, suggestions, and thoughts to think about on each odd numbered page of the book.

The Great Motivation Swindle Laura Tong, Mark Tong, 2014-06-08 Do you dream of doing something awesome, big or small towards a Great Life, anything indeed, but when you try to motivate yourself into actually getting off your burgeoning ass and taking some kick-ass action, nothing happens, zilch? Somehow, for some damn reason you can't identify, your motivation always fails to show up for the party? Goes AWOL? There's a strong chance it's never your true dream you're chasing, but some swindling parasitic desire foisted on you - in short, you've been swindled, you're a casualty of The Great Motivation Swindle. Too many great people are failing to achieve the success and Great Life they could be living and it seems to be assumed that this is a natural state of affairs and there is little that can be done about it. So what do you do if you find it harder to get motivated than a shark at a salad bar? If you're feeling more demotivated than an albino in a heatwave? What happens is you turn to self-improvement. But the killer is that this industry is largely just putting out the same swindling message as society, more and more dressed up in pseudo 'science' and psychological jargon. The mountains of motivational literature, images and quotes that are designed to get you fired up enough to get going and kick some ass, are in fact doing the oh so opposite: rather than motivating ordinary people to get out there and chase down some sweet dream, they are demotivating them or worse still, encouraging the swindleous practice of substituting some other bastard's aims and desires for yours. So what's the alternative? The alternative is a Revolution. A Revolution for the Common Man. A Revolution where you buck the swindle and the whole concept of 'self-improvement', replace all the corrosive crap in your head with your own unique desire and motivation to pursue your own happiness and go grab whatever the hell you want, as you. The book also includes 19 Motivational Rules for the Common Man
