Writing down the information as you go along helps you remember your trip easier and stay with you longer.I've set up this log book in the following way:1. The first section is where you can record the Date and who you're traveling with.2. Next you'll see a section to record the Weather Conditions.3. The next section is where you can jot down where you're traveling to and from, the distance that will be, and how long it took.4. Then you'll see a Traffic section to rate how bad the traffic was.5. Next is an area to plan out your Travel Route a little more, including Stops, Time of Arrival, and Highlights/Notes. Be as detailed as possible here, and fill it out with specific moments.6. Dining Experiences is the next section, and you can write down what you ate, how much, and what restaurants you stopped at.7. The last section is Sleepover Experiences, where you can write your thoughts about where you're staying - the hotel, a friend's house, a camp site, etc.All of these sections are meant to be adaptable to many types of trips, but specifically helpful for road trips.Enjoy (and document) the journey!

Blue Highways William Least Heat-Moon, 2012-04-03 Hailed as a masterpiece of American travel writing, Blue Highways is an unforgettable journey along our nation's backroads. William Least Heat-Moon set out with little more than the need to put home behind him and a sense of curiosity about those little towns that get on the map-if they get on at all-only because some cartographer has a blank space to fill: Remote, Oregon; Simplicity, Virginia; New Freedom, Pennsylvania; New Hope, Tennessee; Why, Arizona; Whynot, Mississippi. His adventures, his discoveries, and his recollections of the extraordinary people he encountered along the way amount to a revelation of the true American experience.

My Road Trip America David John Smith,2019-06-23 MY ROAD TRIP AMERICA is a journey that will take you through the heart and soul of the United States on a trip you will never forget.The Road Trip is an American tradition. It gives us the chance to begin anew, to start again. This can be for the better or worse, we never really know the result of our actions before they take place. This is the coin we flip, the philosophy of the road trip. We walk to the edge of the cliff, we take it to the limit, go beyond the horizon. All road trips have two sides. One is the external, the experiences waiting for you on the road. The beauty, the danger, the possibilities. The second is internal, what is happening inside of you. Your memories, your hopes, your dreams, your fears, your relationships, your expectations - past, present and future. Ian Brodie, the acclaimed author and film photographer has provided the cover photo, which depicts all the feeling of freedom, possibilities and beauty that one hopes to find in any road trip. For the internal perspective, artist Leo T. has depicted a much more complicated setting. The workings of our mind and how we see things around us. Our minds are complicated, and the Road Trip is both therapy and philosophy. You will find Leo T.'s work of art in its entirety in the introduction 'Before we Leave' and with visual references throughout the book as the adventure unfolds. This is our chance to lose ourselves - or to find who we really are - an idea captures all of us at different times during our short lives on Earth. Our golden opportunity to leave our baggage behind - relationships, money, psychological, existential - and redefine ourselves in a way few else on earth can experience. We take the chance, often oblivious to the potential outcome, but fully willing to risk ourselves in the process. This is our last gasp, our last stand, and our new start.

Roadtrip Nation Nathan Gebhard, Mike Marriner, Joanne Gordon, 2006-08-22 SO WHAT ARE YOU GONNA DO WITH YOUR

LIFE? “You should be a lawyer, a doctor, an accountant, a consultant, blah, blah, blah. Everywhere you turn people try to tell you who to be and what to do with your life. We call that the noise. Block it. Shed it. Leave it for the conformists. As a generation, we need to get back to focusing on individuality. Self-construction rather than mass production. Define your own road in life instead of traveling down someone else’s. Listen to yourself. Your road is the open road. Find it.”—Mike and Nathan  After college Mike Marriner and Nathan Gebhard had no idea what to do with their lives. All they’d been exposed to were standard career paths like doctor and consultant—roads that didn’t fit them at all. To see what else was out there they took a roadtrip across the nation in a huge forty-foot RV to meet with people who had successfully defined their own paths in life—including the chairman of Starbucks; a lobsterman from Maine; the director of Saturday Night Live; the conductor of the Boston Philharmonic; the first female Supreme Court Justice of the United States; head stylist for Madonna; and the CEO of National Geographic Ventures. All told, one hundred and forty people candidly shared their stories about how they got from college to the present. Now in Roadtrip Nation, Mike and Nathan share the most compelling tales with you. Along the way, they explain how you, too, can get out there and meet people on your own. From making cold calls to asking stimulating interview questions, Roadtrip Nation will give you the tools to create a life that you’ll look back on and say: “I was true to myself every step of the way.”

The New American Road Trip Mixtape Brendan

Leonard, 2013-07-11 When your life plan explodes, you ask yourself the big questions: What do I really need in life? How can I make my life a work of art? Should I buy a house? Have kids? What is a life? Following in Kerouac and Steinbeck's tire tracks, a 32-year-old, post-breakup Brendan Leonard hits the road in search of healing and a new, post-economic-downturn American Dream. Sleeping in the back of a beat-up station wagon, he seeks answers-and hopefully, the occasional shower-in the postcard-worthy places of the American West. Part ballad to the romance of the road and part heart-searching treatise on the American Dream, The New American Road Trip Mixtape is Leonard's raw, often hilarious, barstool storytelling at its best.
