Cold War and Decolonization in Guinea, 1946-1958 Elizabeth Schmidt,2007-09-25 In September 1958, Guinea claimed its independence, rejecting a constitution that would have relegated it to junior partnership in the French Community. In all the French empire, Guinea was the only territory to vote “No.” Orchestrating the “No” vote was the Guinean branch of the Rassemblement Démocratique Africain (RDA), an alliance of political parties with affiliates in French West and Equatorial Africa and the United Nations trusts of Togo and Cameroon. Although Guinea’s stance vis-à-vis the 1958 constitution has been recognized as unique, until now the historical roots of this phenomenon have not been adequately explained. Clearly written and free of jargon, Cold War and Decolonization in Guinea argues that Guinea’s vote for independence was the culmination of a decade-long struggle between local militants and political leaders for control of the political agenda. Since 1950, when RDA representatives in the French parliament severed their ties to the French Communist Party, conservative elements had dominated the RDA. In Guinea, local cadres had opposed the break. Victimized by the administration and sidelined by their own leaders, they quietly rebuilt the party from the base. Leftist militants, their voices muted throughout most of the decade, gained preeminence in 1958, when trade unionists, students, the party’s women’s and youth wings, and other grassroots actors pushed the Guinean RDA to endorse a “No” vote. Thus, Guinea’s rejection of the proposed constitution in favor of immediate independence was not an isolated aberration. Rather, it was the outcome of years of political mobilization by activists who, despite Cold War repression, ultimately pushed the Guinean RDA to the left. The significance of this highly original book, based on previously unexamined archival records and oral interviews with grassroots activists, extends far beyond its primary subject. In illuminating the Guinean case, Elizabeth Schmidt helps us understand the dynamics of decolonization and its legacy for postindependence nation-building in many parts of the developing world. Examining Guinean history from the bottom up, Schmidt considers local politics within the larger context of the Cold War, making her book suitable for courses in African history and politics, diplomatic history, and Cold War history.

Sierra Hotel : flying Air Force fighters in the decade after Vietnam ,2001 In February 1999, only a few weeks before the U.S. Air Force spearheaded NATO's Allied Force air campaign against Serbia, Col. C.R. Anderegg, USAF (Ret.), visited the commander of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe. Colonel Anderegg had known Gen. John Jumper since they had served together as jet forward air controllers in Southeast Asia nearly thirty years earlier. From the vantage point of 1999, they looked back to the day in February 1970, when they first controlled a laser-guided bomb strike. In this book Anderegg takes us from glimmers of hope like that one through other major improvements in the Air Force that came between the Vietnam War and the Gulf War. Always central in Anderegg's account of those changes are the people who made them. This is a very personal book by an officer who participated in the transformation he describes so vividly. Much of his story revolves around the Fighter Weapons School at Nellis Air Force Base (AFB), Nevada, where he served two tours as an instructor pilot specializing in guided munitions.

Femmes au pouvoir Hervé Gattegno,Anne-Cécile Sarfati,2007-10-10 Ce sont des femmes d’exception. Certaines sont célèbres, d’autres moins. Toutes sont, à leur façon, des pionnières : au cours de la décennie écoulée, dans la politique, l’entreprise, la haute administration, les médias et le monde des affaires, elles ont franchi une à une les marches qui conduisent au pouvoir. Certaines se sentaient prédestinées au commandement ; d’autres ont découvert par hasard qu’elles étaient capables d’en imposer ; d’autres encore se demandent chaque jour si elles vont « y arriver » et s’efforcent de le cacher. Presque toutes l’affirment : dans une société qui reste marquée par l’emprise masculine, leur ascension s’est construite au prix de bien des renoncements. « On nous en demande toujours beaucoup plus qu’à un homme », disent-elles, unanimes.

Michèle Alliot-Marie, Nicole Notat, Claudie Haigneré, Élisabeth Guigou, Anne Lauvergeon, Laurence Parisot, Eva Joly, Christine Lagarde, Anne-Marie Idrac... Jamais ces femmes n’avaient, dans un même livre, raconté leur expérience ; jamais elles n’avaient confié toutes ensemble de quelles souffrances, de quels doutes et de quelles fiertés entremêlées leurs victoires ont été faites. Leurs vingt-cinq témoignages se lisent comme autant d’aventures, publiques et privées.
