Proceedings of the Symposium on Algebraic Geometry in East Asia Akira Ohbuchi, 2003-01-17 This book is the proceedings of the conference OC Algebraic Geometry in East AsiaOCO which was held in International Institute for Advanced Studies (IIAS) during August 3 to August 10, 2001. As the breadth of the topics covered in this proceedings demonstrate, the conference was indeed successful in assembling a wide spectrum of East Asian mathematicians, and gave them a welcome chance to discuss current state of algebraic geometry.

An East Asian Challenge to Western Neoliberalism Niv Horesh, Kean Fan Lim, 2017-08-03 Analysts generally agree that, in the long term, the biggest challenge to American hegemony is not military, but rather China's economic rise. This perception is spread in no small measure because Xi Jinping has – in the face of patent military inferiority – conducted himself much more boldly on the world stage than Hu Jintao. Meanwhile, China has also begun conjuring up an alternative vision for global leadership, now widely termed as the 'China model'. This book therefore offers a critical and comprehensive explanation of the China model and its origins. Using a range of case studies, covering varying historical and geographical approaches, it debates whether the Chinese experience in the last three decades of economic reform should be interpreted as an answer to the reigning hegemony of neoliberalism, or rather a further reinforcement of it. To answer these questions, it provides an investigation into what China may have learned from its East Asian neighbours' earlier economic successes. It also examines how it is responding to and might even reconfigure the world political-economic system as it develops fresh and potentially more powerful regulatory capacities. Providing a multi-dimensional analysis of the 'China model', the book will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese Economics, Economic Geography and Chinese Studies.

Globalization and New Intra-Urban Dynamics in Asian Cities Natacha Aveline-Dubach, Sue-Ching Jou, Hsin-Huang Michael Hsiao, 2014-08-04 This book presents a set of essays on the globalization and intra-urban dynamics of the Asian cities conducted by Taiwanese and French researchers. It covers four main themes: "culture-led regeneration projects," "dynamics of second-tier cities," "urban redevelopment and land issues," and "new urban spaces of regulation, associational life, and civic action." It involved comparing research subject priorities in this field as well as the approaches chosen to deal with them within a geographical zone extended from Northeast to southern Asia. Rather than a comparison between Western and Asian visions of the same urban objects, the project aimed to highlight differences and/or similarities in the approaches of scientific communities, inevitably influenced by national issues. With great articulation and discourse between urban reality and theories, it also observes distinctive approaches of urban research teams respectively in France and Taiwan.

P'ungsu Hong-key Yoon, 2017-12-04 The first scholarly book to address Korean geomancy through an interdisciplinary lens. This book is a milestone in the history of academic research on the development and role of geomancy (fengshui in Chinese and p'ungsu in Korean) in Korean culture and society. As the first interdisciplinary work of its kind, it investigates many topics in geomancy studies that have never been previously explored, and contains contributions from a number of disciplines including geography, historical studies, environmental science, architecture, landscape architecture, religious studies, and psychoanalysis. While almost all books in English about geomancy are addressed to general readers as practical guides for divining auspicious locations, P'ungsu is a work of rigorous scholarship that documents, analyzes, and explains past and current practices of geomancy. Its readers will better understand the impact of geomancy on the Korean cultural landscape and appreciate the significant ecological principles embedded in the geomantic traditions of Korea; while researchers will discover new insights and inspirations for future research on geomancy not only in Korea, but in China and elsewhere.

Readership: Medical and research scientists interested in bioactive components of natural products. keywords: "This book is a comprehensive and timely contribution to the scientific understanding of traditional medicine and plant use in China, Hong Kong, Japan, and Korea ... It will be extremely useful to scientists and individuals who are not familiar or facile with the literature on medicinal plants of northeast Asia." Journal of Natural Products "It is a notable achievement to have a brief summary of the scientific information on so many medicinal plants available, especially since this information is scattered through journals which frequently are difficult to obtain ... the volume under review is a useful compilation of information on indigenous medicinal plants in this region and it is particularly noteworthy that an international collaboration made the book possible."
