A Pocket Mirror for Heroes Baltasar Gracian,2011-04-27 A Pocket Mirror for Heroes is a mirror because it reflects the person you are or the one you ought to be. It is a pocket mirror because its author took the time to be brief. And it is a mirror for heroes because it provides a vivid image of ethical and moral perfection to which all can aspire. The Art of Worldly Wisdom by Baltasar Gracian was all but forgotten for three hundred years, until its republication in 1992 turned this lost classic into a New York Times bestseller. Now Gracian, the Spanish Jesuit considered Machiavelli's better in strategy and insight, sets a new standard on the art of living and the practice of achieving. That new standard is the art of heroism--how to be the consummate person, ripe and perfect: accurate in judgment, mature in taste, attentive in listening, wise in sayings, shrewd in deeds, the center of all perfection. Gracian teaches the reader to be a giant--the greatest person possible, a miracle of perfection, a king. Wit, wisdom, courage, elegance, grace, humility, spontaneity--these are the qualities needed to reach heroism in any occupation. But it is not enough to be wise or graceful: one must learn as well how to manage that talent, how to distinguish a quality from its shadow. A Pocket Mirror for Heroes provides a politics for governing oneself, a compass for sailing toward excellence, an art for reaching distinction with just a few rules of discretion, and it will be wise and witty company for anyone who recognizes--and relishes--the challenges of daily life.

The Pocket Mirror II Virginia Florey,2015-03-28 A touching look at growing up before technology took over our lives. We who were born in the Depression Years were unique in many ways. Not that we knew it at the time. Only later, growing up and growing old, did we realize that we had lived in, possibly, the best of all possible worlds.

The Youth's Companion Nathaniel Willis,Daniel Sharp Ford,1901 Includes music.

The Pocket Mirror Virginia Florey,Norma A. Boeckler,2014-09-02 For those of us now grown up,our childhood seems to be a distant land...We lived in a less complicated society and we all seemed to share such a commonality. We knew a childhood that lasted from the time we were able to walk to when we graduated from the eighth grade. We believed that doctors brought new babies to our house in a little black bag that they always carried. We believed adults when they said if we swallowed chewing gum that a rubber tree would grow in our stomach. We believed in ghosts, in being truthful, in respecting the adults in our life and that we were going to be rich and famous when we grew up. Our innocence was complete. And the strangest part of this is that our parents and our grandparents enjoyed that same sense of innocence. To the countless people who saw their lives echoed in mine as I wrote about the ordinary things that happen every day in our ordinary lives. To the one said to me: "My mother left the porch light on for me, too." Or the one who said, "We always had an Indian blanket in our car, too." In some strange way reading about the things that happened in my life while growing up seemed to confirm and validate what had happened in their lives while growing up. Let my pocket mirror take you back to that Distant Land.
