The Black-Tailed Prairie Dog John L. Hoogland,1995-04 In The Black-Tailed Prairie Dog, John L. Hoogland draws on sixteen years of research at Wind Cave National Park, South Dakota, in the United States to provide this account of prairie dog social behavior. Through comparisons with more than 300 other animal species, he offers new insights into basic theory in behavioral ecology and sociobiology. Hoogland documents interactions within and among families of prairie dogs to examine the advantages and disadvantages of coloniality. By addressing such topics as male and female reproductive success, inbreeding, kin recognition, and infanticide, Hoogland offers a broad view of conflict and cooperation. Among his surprising findings is that prairie dog females sometimes suckle, and at other times kill, the offspring of close kin. Enhanced by more than 100 photographs, this book illuminates the social organization of a burrowing mammal and raises fundamental questions about current theory. As the most detailed long-term study of any social rodent, The Black-Tailed Prairie Dog will interest not only mammalogists and other vertebrate biologists, but also students of behavioral and evolutionary ecology.

The Predator Hunter's Playbook Andrew L. Lewand,2016-10-06 The art of calling to predators is the true essence of predator hunting. Developing and using sound sequences is an exciting tactic that brings cagey coyotes and Finicky foxes running to any hunters setup. The problem is that there are so many questions about developing productive sequences.This book takes all the guesswork out of creating sequences and presents a variety of proven sequences that can be used during all times throughout the calling season. Think of this book as coach's play book that contains all the calling tricks to use while afield. The text explains... - Sequences that red fox cannot resist - How to target Grayfox and make them come running - How to call in any predator with an earshot while not scaring others away - Several coyote-only sequences that work during all phases of the season

Coding Strategies in Vertebrate Acoustic Communication Thierry Aubin,Nicolas Mathevon,2020-03-28 Information is a core concept in animal communication: individuals routinely produce, acquire, process and store information, which provides the basis for their social life. This book focuses on how animal acoustic signals code information and how this coding can be shaped by various environmental and social constraints. Taking birds and mammals, including humans, as models, the authors explore such topics as communication strategies for “public” and “private” signaling, static and dynamic signaling, the diversity of coded information and the way information is decoded by the receiver. The book appeals to a wide audience, ranging from bioacousticians, ethologists and ecologists to evolutionary biologists. Intended for students and researchers alike, it promotes the idea that Shannon and Weaver’s Mathematical Theory of Communication still represents a strong framework for understanding all aspects of the communication process, including its dynamic dimensions.
