Video Products Creation and Marketing on Clickbank Marketplace David a Osei,2019-11-26 Here's a not-so-secret mystery: the market is getting sick of the common eBooks and special reports that assures the most revolutionary info. They require something fresh... something additional... something that they may actually react to. And it has become a marketer's challenge to get hold of novel products that would shake up a market slowly passing into apathetic stupefaction.And the most prosperous product types that have been devised in recent months are video products. Yep, video that you may actually watch from your monitor. Video that's accompanied with audio comments, which try to inform, if not to entertain as well.Video products provide a lot of advantages over conventional text products. Studies have demonstrated that: Individuals would like to watch and listen to videos instead of readVideos typically convert better than conventional written material.Videos may be viral in nature, and they may be hosted free of charge on net video streaming sites like YouTube or MetaCafe. As an alternative, you are able to likewise host your videos on your own domain if your server may handle it and your provider allows those file types.Additionally, with the emergence of social media networking sites like Facebook and Twitter, you are able to provide video samples or video reviews of your product, and they've the power to go viral (circulate by word of mouth).If you are able to capitalize on this phenomenon, your marketing campaign and product will grow exponentially.Videos have allowed the big dogs in the industry to establish a deeper connection with their customers and dramatically better the results of their web and product campaign

Impact of Delivery Time on Consumer Behavior in Quick Commerce Alice Harter,2024-03-04 Delivery speed is one of the most important factors influencing consumer decision-making in e-commerce. Retailers have responded by continuously decreasing their average delivery times. This trend towards faster delivery has led to the emergence of a new business model that is transforming online-to-offline markets by providing a new time-critical service: Quick commerce promises to deliver products to consumers within minutes, ensuring almost immediate gratification of instant consumer needs. The main objective of this cumulative dissertation is to provide a better understanding of delivery time in quick commerce and its impact on consumer behavior. To this end, the author presents three independent articles, which are nested in a general introduction and conclusion. Article 1 is a systematic literature review that establishes the foundation for the dissertation by reviewing consumer responses to waiting time in various settings. Article 2 investigates how deviations from communicated delivery times relate to consumer repurchase behavior in quick commerce. Article 3 examines how consumers' purchase intentions depend on both their motivation for the purchase and the product type in question. The results of this dissertation contribute to prior research by (1) synthesizing and integrating existing evidence on consumer responses to waiting times, (2) providing knowledge about the effects of late and early deliveries on consumer behavior in quick commerce, and (3) improving the understanding of two important purchase factors (purchase motivation and product type) that may moderate the effect of delivery time on consumer behavior.
