Sequestered: Arming Parents for Today's High School Michael E. Russo, 2013-07-25 Far too many of our children are termed “at-risk”. We hear it often and become conditioned to failure; then we blame the kids! But our failure is systemic. What is it about our middle and high schools that is so toxic? What do educators hide from parents? How are parents, students and teachers to deal with today's secondary school? What are the major issues? Finally, how can parents attend to those issues on their child's high school campus? Russo's personal and broad social narrative surveys secondary school in a readable alphabetic guide. As different as it can be from a standardized test, Russo proffers skill-based behaviors in building relationships that are accountable, measurable and have observable outcomes. School is dependent on followers. In a “nation at risk” Sequestered is a call to action. Actions that parents need take on their neighborhood school campus. Actions parents need take in their own home. Sequestered is not the idiotic call of the NRA, but that aside, parents facing our secondary schools should be armed! Sequestered shows you how.

Generation Z Learns Meghan Grace, Corey Seemiller, 2019-05-16 From elementary to graduate school, classrooms are now filled with Generation Z students, born 1995-2010. And, much like those in the generations who came before, these students are eager to learn. But, their characteristics, interests, styles, and preferred learning environments are in many ways different from their predecessors. How then can educators effectively leverage the capacities and foster the potential of this generational cohort? In Generation Z Learns, Dr. Corey Seemiller and Meghan Grace, explore the nuances of Generation Z and offer recommendations to enhance the educational experience for this generation. Seemiller and Grace are also authors of Generation Z Goes to College, Generation Z Leads, and Generation Z: A Century in the Making. Dr. Seemiller serves on the faculty at Wright State University in the Department of Leadership Studies in Education and Organizations. She has taught at the college level for more than 20 years and has researched and published extensively on issues related to teaching and learning. Grace is an associate with Plaid, LLC. She has taught undergraduate courses as well as served in both campus-based and organizational roles in the areas of leadership development, program and event planning, assessment, and fraternity and sorority programs.

High School 101: the Rubric Natasha Z. Hodge EdD, 2017-10-20 Whether you are in the ninth grade or completing your senior year, high school is a very exciting time for students and parents. There are numerous opportunities available to students in high school; however, students and parents must determine which educational plan best fits their student. The High School Rubric is a guide that provides valuable information on how to navigate the high school process. Students and parents are provided with resources that will guide them on making choices that will better prepare them for the successful transition for life after high school. Additionally, the guide includes expert advice on study skills and time management. There is also guidance on gap year, military, college options, and financial aid. No matter where you are in high school, The High School Rubric can offer guidance.

Literacy Instruction with Disciplinary Texts William E. Lewis, John Z. Strong, 2020-10-28 To develop strong disciplinary literacy skills, middle and high school students need to engage with diverse types of challenging texts in every content area. This book provides a blueprint for constructing literacy-rich instructional units in English language arts, science, and social studies. The authors describe how to design interconnected text sets and plan lessons that support learning and engagement before, during, and after reading. Presented are ways to build academic vocabulary and background knowledge, teach research-based comprehension strategies, and guide effective discussions and text-based writing activities. Chapters also cover how to teach students to write argumentative, informative, and narrative essays, and to conduct discipline-specific inquiry. Special features include sample text sets and 24 reproducible planning templates and other teaching tools; purchasers get access to a Web page where they can download and print the reproducible materials in a convenient 8 1/2 x 11 size.
