Evaluation of Work Zone Speed Limit Signs with Strobe Lights R. F. Benekahal,Jie Shu,1992 The construction zone speed limit sign used in Illinois consists of a regulatory 45 mph speed limit sign augmented with two small strobe lights and two orange colored plates. When the lights are flashing the speed limit is 45 mph. This report contains the findings from evaluation of the effectiveness of the flashing lights in reducing speeds in a rural interstate construction zone. The speed reduction effects on cars and trucks were determined at two locations within the work zone. The results indicated that the average speed of cars was reduced by 1.9-7.1 mph and that of trucks by 1.3-6.0 mph when the strobe lights were flashing. In general, the speed reduction effects were more pronounced on the cars than on the trucks, and at a location past the work space than before it. The reductions at the location past the work space were 2-3 times more than the reductions at the location before the work space. Cars reduced their speeds, on the average, by 1.9 to 4.9 mph before and by 5.9 to 7.1 mph after the work space. Similarly, the speed reduction for trucks was 1.3-2.9 mph before and 3.3-6.0 after the work space. In general, the percentages of vehicles with excessive speeds in the work zone decreased when the lights were flashing.

The Effectiveness of Strobe Lights as Supplemental Warning Devices at Protected Railroad Grade Crossing Leland H. Bates,1985

Evaluation of the Use of Strobe Lights in the Red Lens of Traffic Signals Benjamin H. Cottrell,1994 The objective of this study was to evaluate the effectiveness of using strobe lights in the red lens of traffic signals and, if appropriate, to recommend guidelines for their use. Strobe lights are used as a supplement to the red lens to draw the attention of drivers to a traffic signal. VDOT has 22 intersections with strobe lights in six of its nine districts; this is up from 3 intersections in 1987. Nineteen of these are in the western part of the state, and most have the strobe light in the red signal over the left through lane. The Barlo strobe light, a horizontal bar positioned across the middle of the red lens with about 60 flashes of white light per minute, is used at all 22 intersections. The cost of a red signal head with a Barlo strobe light is about $765. Strobe lights are used by VDOT primarily for (1) areas with a high truck volume and high speed; (2) areas with a high accident rate; (3) areas with road geometrics, especially grades (downgrade), horizontal curves, and other features, that result in limited sight distance; and (4) isolated intersections where a signal is unexpected. Based on the analyses, there was no evidence indicating that strobe lights are consistently effective in reducing accidents. The limitations of the analyses are identified in the study. There is no basis for recommending the use of strobe lights unless there are other bona fide measures of effectiveness that can be used to justify installing them.

With the help of allies--both human and supernatural--they've discovered that every threat they vanquish opens a new door for evil to enter in. At the stroke of midnight, everyone awake in a small Missouri town suddenly falls unconscious in the middle of whatever they were doing. When Sam and Dean investigate, the town seems peaceful. But they soon uncover a wave of strange behavior - streaking, petty vandalism and random violence - and nobody can remember why they did it. With reports of strange shadows and horrible murders, the Winchesters dig deep into the town's secrets and uncover a tragedy fifty years in the making....
