Horizontal Shear Testing of Woven Fiberglass/epoxy Composites Robert T. Achard,1983 In this program horizontal (apparent) shear data from a number of quality control efforts were compiled and augmented by additional tests. The data were used to show the effects of test parameters, cure conditions, and material age on the apparent shear. Failure modes were recorded. Findings include: (1) Based on the horizontal shear test, CE 9000 (Ferro Corp.) should not be postcured above 370 F, and the desirability and effects of a postcure between 350F and 370F should be explored before committing to this postcure condition. (2) Autoclave cure of CE 9000 will increase its resin dominated shear properties 50% or more, compared to vacuum-bag, oven-cured parts. An appreciable drop in apparent shear using the short beam method occurs as S/t6 is increased. Data should be normalized to a consistent S/t for comparison. (3) The predominant damage pattern for woven glass coupons is related to S/t and the degree of cure. (4) Certain woven glass composites require an S/t well below 5 to achieve shear failure. (5) Short beam specimens of the type investigated should be fabricated with peel plies or porous release cloth on both sides.

The Judgment of Love James M. Matarazzo Jr,2018-10-19 This book seeks to explore the concept of divine judgment in Christian eschatology. It contends that this judgment is salvific rather than destructive. This notion can be described aphoristically as iudicandus est salvandus (to be judged is to be saved). The provocation to Christian eschatology is that human beings are not saved from judgment, but are saved within it. The exploration begins defining the context and moves into a review of the symbols and problems of judgment through a reappraisal of De novissimis (concerning the last things), the last section found in traditional works of Christian dogmatics. This is followed by a critical engagement with the soteriological optimism posited by four twentieth- and twenty-first century theologians: Sergei Bulgakov, Hans Urs von Balthasar, J. A. T. Robinson, and Marilyn McCord Adams. The event of the judgment is then defined as the event of absolute recognition: that it is within the eschatic recognition of God, the self, and the other that transformation and glorification of human persons occur in a way that avoids a dual outcome of salvation and damnation. The book concludes by proposing that we may approach divine judgment with faith, hope, and love--not only for ourselves, but for the human race as a whole.

Additionally, many universities and educational institutions have their own digital libraries that provide free access to PDF books and manuals. These libraries often offer academic texts, research papers, and technical manuals, making them invaluable resources for students and researchers. Some notable examples include MIT OpenCourseWare, which offers free access to course materials from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the Digital Public Library of America, which provides a vast collection of digitized books and historical documents.
