Gilles Duranton,Vernon Henderson,William Strange

Introduction to Tourism Transport Sven Gross,Louisa Klemmer,2014-08-26 Transport is an inherent part of tourism; whether as a functional means of transportation, such as between origin and destination or within the destination; or as a key element of the holiday experience itself, as in cruising or traveling along scenic or historic routes. This book provides the necessary background information to gain a comprehensive understanding of transportation markets, with each of the three modes of transportation – air, ground and marine – explored in detail. Each section includes definitions, the historical development of the market and international institutional frameworks, with case studies, learning objectives and study questions incorporated to facilitate an active learning process.

To Buy or Not to Buy a Home Sachin Mittal,2018-06-20 Living with a roof over your head is a mark of living in a civilized world. A house isn't a luxury, but as essential a need as food and water. Then, may the need of living in a house be fulfilled through renting a place or through buying a house. All of us, at some or the other points in our lives, when there is enough money available for down-payment, go through the predicament about whether to rent or buy a house. Since ages homeownership has met with societal reputation and thus buying a house feels right due to this long-nurtured belief. But, is it truly the right decision? Being inhabitants of a better informed world warrants the need to augment our hunch with facts and making a calculated decision. While the decision of buying a house on mortgage is a serious and long impacting decision, staying put on rent can lead to the feeling of uncertainty and rootlessness in life. The step-by-step process of reaching a decision amidst buying versus renting has been explored in this book wherein by the end you will be able to tell with crystal clarity that 'I want to buy a house or I would rather stay put on rent than buy a house,' whichever the case may be. The book explores the pros and cons of both the decisions and also how the merits and demerits change with the change of city and other factors. It is one of the most comprehensive books exploring the aspect of buying versus renting from Indian standpoint. Although the emphasis is on exploring the dilemma of buying versus renting, it also gives away the tips useful for successful buying or renting while avoiding any financial disasters on the way. This book is nothing less than a shortest dependable guide to real estate market in India, delving into the strengths and weaknesses of real estates in different cities in India and showing how to make the decision of investing through renting or buying. With an abundance of examples it shows that there is no single correct answer. The book digs deeper into the answer of 'It depends.' The book lays a chart for stakeholders enlightening about the tools which should be used when taking a decision as serious as that of taking the buying road, including investing the savings in down-payment, taking a loan and then repaying it, or going for renting and investing the savings in other financial instruments. It is an essential read for anyone planning on embarking a buying or renting venture. It will guide them through the property maze in India with differential buying and renting structures and save them from making expensive mistakes. Think home ownership is always the most profitable road? Know better. Sachin Mittal

Poor Housing Josh Brandon,Jim Silver,2017-01-18T00:00:00Z Across Canada, there is a severe shortage of decent quality housing that is affordable to those with low incomes, and much of the housing that is available is inadequate, even appalling. The poor condition of housing for those below the poverty line adds to the weight of the complex poverty they already endure, which includes worsening health, adversely affected education and neighbourhoods that are more prone to crime and violence. Using Winnipeg, Manitoba, as an example, Poor Housing examines the real-life circumstances of low-income people who are forced to live in these conditions. Contributing authors examine some of the challenges faced by low-income people in poor housing, including difficulties with landlords who abuse their power, bedbugs, racism and discrimination and a wide range of other social and psychological effects. Other selections consider the particular housing problems faced by Aboriginal people and by newcomers to Winnipeg as well as the challenges faced by individuals living in rooming houses. A central theme in the collection is that the private, for-profit housing market cannot meet the housing needs of low-income Canadians, and, therefore, governments must intervene and provide subsidies. But all levels of government have shown a consistent unwillingness to invest in decent housing for low-income people. The irony is that the social costs of poor housing and the complex poverty of which it is a part are almost certainly greater than the costs of investing in subsidized social housing and related anti-poverty measures. Finally, the authors describe a number of creative and successful housing strategies for low-income people in Winnipeg, including Aboriginal housing co-ops, a revitalized 1960s-style public housing complex and a highly creative repurposing of an inner-city church into supported social housing. In these successful cases, communities and governments have worked cooperatively to good effect.

Differential Undercounts in the U.S. Census William P. O'Hare,2019-01-01 This open access book describes the differences in US census coverage, also referred to as “differential undercount”, by showing which groups have the highest net undercounts and which groups have the greatest undercount differentials, and discusses why such undercounts occur. In addition to focusing on measuring census coverage for several demographic characteristics, including age, gender, race, Hispanic origin status, and tenure, it also considers several of the main hard-to-count populations, such as immigrants, the homeless, the LGBT community, children in foster care, and the disabled. However, given the dearth of accurate undercount data for these groups, they are covered less comprehensively than those demographic groups for which there is reliable undercount data from the Census Bureau. This book is of interest to demographers, statisticians, survey methodologists, and all those interested in census coverage.

Rent Jonathan Larson,2008 (Applause Libretto Library). Finally, an authorized libretto to this modern day classic! Rent won the 1996 Pulitzer Prize for Drama, as well as four Tony Awards, including Best Musical, Best Book, and Best Score for Jonathan Larson. The story of Mark, Roger, Maureen, Tom Collins, Angel, Mimi, JoAnne, and their friends on the Lower East Side of New York City will live on, along with the affirmation that there is no day but today. Includes 16 color photographs of productions of Rent from around the world, plus an introduction (Rent Is Real) by Victoria Leacock Hoffman.

Moving toward Integration Richard H. Sander,2018-05-07 Reducing residential segregation is the best way to reduce racial inequality in the United States. African American employment rates, earnings, test scores, even longevity all improve sharply as residential integration increases. Yet far too many participants in our policy and political conversations have come to believe that the battle to integrate America’s cities cannot be won. Richard Sander, Yana Kucheva, and Jonathan Zasloff write that the pessimism surrounding desegregation in housing arises from an inadequate understanding of how segregation has evolved and how policy interventions have already set many metropolitan areas on the path to integration. Scholars have debated for decades whether America’s fair housing laws are effective. Moving toward Integration provides the most definitive account to date of how those laws were shaped and implemented and why they had a much larger impact in some parts of the country than others. It uses fresh evidence and better analytic tools to show when factors like exclusionary zoning and income differences between blacks and whites pose substantial obstacles to broad integration, and when they do not. Through its interdisciplinary approach and use of rich new data sources, Moving toward Integration offers the first comprehensive analysis of American housing segregation. It explains why racial segregation has been resilient even in an increasingly diverse and tolerant society, and it demonstrates how public policy can align with demographic trends to achieve broad housing integration within a generation.

Private Rental Housing Tony Crook, Peter A. Kemp, 2014-02-28 A new focus on private renting has been brought into sharp relief by the global financial crisis, with its profound impact on mortgage finance, housing markets and government budgets. Energy Efficiency and the Future of Real Estate N. Edward Coulson, Yongsheng Wang, Clifford A. Lipscomb, 2017-08-01 This book explores how energy efficiency is a major component in the development of sustainable real estate. Efficiency is one of the most frequently-mentioned aspects of government policies for green building design in the United States and around the world. There has been a significant amount of effort devoted to the creation of green practices in real estate, including building construction, building assessment, city planning, investment, governmental regulation and policies, and industrial development. One of the key emphases of the above activities is energy efficiency, thus it is crucial for researchers and readers to have a comprehensive overview of the topic, as this book provides.

Handbook of Regional and Urban Economics Gilles Duranton, Vernon Henderson, William Strange, 2015-06-29 Developments in methodologies, agglomeration, and a range of applied issues have characterized recent advances in regional and urban studies. Volume 5 concentrates on these developments while treating traditional subjects such as housing, the costs and benefits of cities, and policy issues beyond regional inequalities. Contributors make a habit of combining theory and empirics in each chapter, guiding research amid a trend in applied economics towards structural and quasi-experimental approaches. Clearly distinguished from the New Economic Geography covered by Volume 4, these articles feature an international approach that positions recent advances within the discipline of economics and society at large. Emphasizes advances in applied econometrics and the blurring of within and between cities Promotes the integration of theory and empirics in most chapters Presents new research on housing, especially in macro and international finance contexts

Affordable Housing in the Urban Global South Jan Bredenoord, Paul Van Lindert, Peer Smets, 2014-06-05 The global increase in the number of slums calls for policies which improve the conditions of the urban poor, sustainably. This volume provides an extensive overview of current housing policies in Asia, Africa and Latin America and presents the facts and trends of recent housing policies. The chapters provide ideas and tools for pro-poor interventions with respect to the provision of land for housing, building materials, labour, participation and finance. The book looks at the role of the various stakeholders involved in such interventions, including national and local governments, private sector organisations, NGOs and Community-based Organisations.

RHS A Nation in Bloom Matthew Biggs, 2019-05-06 'Never has the work of the Royal Horticultural Society been more important or more far reaching.' Foreword by Alan Titchmarsh The RHS is the world's largest gardening charity but what it does and why is little understood and rarely celebrated. From defining new gardening trends at the Chelsea Flower Show, to ranking the best dahlias to grow at the Wisley trial grounds, to inspiring communities with Britain in Bloom, educating children to grow and eat their veg through the Campaign for School Gardening, the RHS works tirelessly to improve the gardener's lot. With the use of evocative archive images and contemporary photos by award-winning Jason Ingram, this beautiful book explores the past, present and future of this most influential organisation by listening to the voices of those working today. From the thousands of volunteers in the society's five unique gardens (Wisley in Surrey, Rosemoor in Devon, Hyde Hall in Essex, Harlow Carr in Yorkshire and new addition Bridgewater in Salford), to the one million visitors to its inspirational flower shows (including Chelsea, Hampton Court, Tatton Park, Cardiff, Wisley and Chatsworth); the society gives meaning to more than 475,000 members, millions of television viewers and visitors from around the world. The RHS is the best of gardening, and this book presents the best of the RHS. Behind the scenes, access all areas, this book will give lasting pleasure to anyone who enjoys their garden.
