Marketing Traps: How to Spot Fake Discounts versus Real Discounts in Stores Things You Must Know About Store Coupon Policies Loyalty Programs: Why do they exist and why should you care? 16 Useful Resources for Snagging the Best Deals Conclusion Final Word/About the Author An excerpt from the book: The notion of bargain shopping for groceries has been around at least as long as grocery stores themselves. Back in the 14th century, there were small locally owned grocers (also known as trading posts) that would sell dry items such as tea, herbs, spices, sugar, coffee, and other baking goods. As time passed, they began to sell other household staple foods such as canned meat, fruit, vegetables, or soups. Typically, customers would walk into these types of stores; hand a list to the clerk, and the clerk would bag up the items and ring them up. Since most of the foods were nonperishable, there were seldom sales like we see today. Bargains were only found in the case of an over stocked item, or through friendly one-on-one negotiations. In 1916 in Memphis Tennessee, Clarence

Saunders established Piggly Wiggly, a popular common store seen throughout the southern United States. This was the first 'self-serve' grocer. This way of shopping proved to be very popular for both customers and storeowners. The customer enjoyed the freedom of browsing for the most desired items. Piggly Wiggly carried a whopping 605 different items (a sharp contrast to the then dated smaller local stores) and there was a greater opportunity for the consumer to purchase more than what they initially intended, making the storeowner happy as well. However, because there were a wider variety of perishable goods the store had to mark down prices on fresh produce, meats, dairy and eggs. It did not take a smart shopper long to figure out that the best day for shopping was the day before the next delivery was expected. The clerks always marked down the older items, to make room for the new. Invest Time To Shop Smart Katherina Sheehan, 2013-10-23 When I was a little girl, I always had a passion to look my best. It did not matter if I was with friends, family, or at special events. I just wanted to stand out and look good. My parents always wanted the very best for me. My family also inspired me to look further into my future and what I wanted to do as a career. I was convinced by my family, I would be a great fashion consultant. Perhaps, my family was right. However, I decided to take a different career path. To make it in the fashion industry, you need to have connections, you need to network, and it is a cut throat business and very competitive. I felt a little discouraged by doing my research and finding out what it really takes to succeed. I remain strong and continue to think positive. Maybe, one day I will have an opportunity to work in fashion. But for now, I will accept my life just the way it is.
