Garden Revolution Larry Weaner, Thomas Christopher, 2016-05-18 AHS Book Award winner This lushly-photographed reference is an important moment in horticulture that will be embraced by anyone looking for a better, smarter way to garden. Larry Weaner is an icon in the world of ecological landscape design, and now his revolutionary approach is available to all gardeners. Garden Revolution shows how an ecological approach to planting can lead to beautiful gardens that buck much of conventional gardening's counter-productive, time-consuming practices. Instead of picking the wrong plant and then constantly tilling, weeding, irrigating, and fertilizing, Weaner advocates for choosing plants that are adapted to the soil and climate of a specific site and letting them naturally evolve over time. Allowing the plants to find their own niches, to spread their seed around until they find the microclimate and spot that suits them best, creates a landscape that is vibrant, dynamic, and gorgeous year after year.

Homescaping Anne Halpin, 2005-04-16 Transform your landscape into an extension of your home with this innovative new approach to garden design and outdoor decorating—showing how to create the perfect setting for any home. Would a woodland garden work with a stone farmhouse? Would a flagstone walkway suit a brick Colonial? This one-of-a-kind book shows how to transform outdoor space into an extension of the home by matching landscape design to house style. In Homescaping, noted garden writer Anne Halpin:

- o Explores different garden styles and offers guidelines on which sorts of houses each garden style suits best
- o Shows the way to mix and match the colors of paint and building materials with flower and plant colors
- o Looks at options for paths, patios, decks, walls, fences, and hedges; outdoor structures like arbors, pergolas, gazebos, and sheds; and outdoor furniture, lighting, water features, ornaments, and plant containers

Weatherproofing Your Landscape Sandra Dark, Dean Hill, 2011 A how-to guide to defensive gardening A necessary resource for professionals, universities, botanical gardens, horticultural clubs, and anyone interested in saving their landscape from the increasing danger of threats from fire, wind, and flood.--Robert Haehle, South Florida Sun-Sentinel Covers many aspects of preparing your property for extreme weather events: an important part of sustainable landscaping.--Ginny Stibolt, author of Sustainable Gardening for Florida Global weather events are unpredictable. Hurricanes, tornadoes, drought, fire, snow, ice, freezing temperatures, and floods wreak millions of dollars in damage to residential landscapes each year. Weatherproofing Your Landscape provides the practical information you need to strengthen precious and valuable trees and shrubs, remove those that can't be saved, and promptly restore what has been damaged. For example, your best bet where limited space or thin soil presents a potential tipping problem is to plant small-stature species that develop balanced top-growth-to-root system ratios as they mature. Even where soil depth isn't a problem, top-heavy specimens are particularly vulnerable to tipping when the ground becomes saturated with rainfall. Selecting proper species for such landscapes as well as improving drainage can help prevent losses from waterlogged soil. Every part of the country is vulnerable to any combination of volatile weather events. Weatherproofing Your Landscape supplies the answers on how to prepare, manage, and recover your valuable landscape, including tips on what you can accomplish during a storm to minimize damage. Journalist Sandra Dark's work has appeared in a wide range of publications including Gardening How-To, Organic Gardening, The Family Food Garden, and Mother Earth News. She is a member of the Garden Writers Association and the American Society of Journalists and Authors. Dean Hill, ASLA, was the cohost and landscape designer of the DIY Network's Grounds for Improvement television program and is the author of Grounds for Improvement: 25 Great Landscaping & Gardening Projects.
