The Perfect Watchlist (Of Stocks) Brad Koteswar,2021-01-04 Editorial Reviews: Review: When a chart speaks, you listen should be the title of this presentation. Written as if you were watching a live colorful PowerPoint presentation, with tens and tens of charts all showing the same basic winning pattern, it is hard to believe that it can be so simple, yet so hard! ---A. Greenberg, Master Chartist Of Over 40 Years Thank you so much for making charts speak to me! ---Adam J. With tens of stocks to watch on the watchlist in the book, it would be fascinating to see which ones are going to make the big runs in 2021 and beyond. I must admit, I am not surprised to see so many Biotech stocks! Read this and learn to build your own watchlist of potential winners! ---Larry F. Do you see, or do you observe? Hit the nail on the head! Well worth many-fold the subscription fees I pay for many stock-market services! Actual executable implementable knowledge in this book that can be used for a lifetime - it is priceless. ---J. O'Neill From The Back Cover: Where are the next stocks like Tesla of 2020? Or Mirati Therapeutics of 2017-2020? Are they on your watchlist of stocks? How to learn to get such stocks on your watchlist? How to buy such stocks and hold them for the most fruitful and rewarding periods of time? Once you do find such stocks, do you know when to buy, when to sell, how much to buy? You can lose on a winning stock too. You could sell a winning stock too early or too late. When is the right time to get in and get out? Is it even possible to time the stock or the market? How well do you know yourself? Can you separate your self from your actions in the stock market? Is it easy? Is it hard? Can it be learned? About the Author: Brad Koteswar began trading foreign currencies and Treasury bond futures in the mid-eighties. He started trading stocks in 1987 and within months was wiped out on Black Monday, 1987. Having worked with major firms in the 1980s, which are now defunct, he went on to work for himself in the 1990s. Having tasted the freedom of being on his own, he has never looked back. Now, approaching the end of his fourth decade in the markets, he leads a simple and uncomplicated life and uses the same simple uncomplicated approach to his stock market evaluation and activity. Many years have passed since his last book. But the lessons and the methods have not changed. The subtle art of speculation has not changed. The messages in the charts are clear, if only you can observe.

Watchlist Ronnie Philips, 2018-11-09 We are the only Stock Journal to offer tracking of emotion on each day! The Professional's Stock Watch Journal is a labor of love with an interesting history. For twenty years, I watched my husband track his watch list, buys, sells and emotional moods on scraps of paper, napkins and business cards. While there were plenty of apps available to track these things, none of them ever gave him the options that he needed. Most were too robust, and none had any emotional tracking available. Hence, The Professional's Stock Watch Journal was born to capture the things most important to a man who trades for the love of trading, not as a full time job. The Watchlist captures the day, date and up to 20 stocks, along with Entry, Exit and Analysis space for each. It also has open space for capturing notes or thoughts. The Perfect Chart Brad Koteswar,2023 A few words from the publisher: The prior watchlist released in March 2022 by Brad Koteswar did its job. The stocks on that watchlist foretold the story of market weakness. About a handful of stocks from that list have maintained their uptrend. As the author has expressed in his prior works, there is no need to listen human beings. The stocks on his watchlist told us all what the market's intention was. Now with the current watchlist, Brad Koteswar continues with the same theme that these stocks will indicate the market's health and intentions over the next six to twelve months. There are a few stocks that are on the current list that were on the prior list and there are more than a few new ones on the current list. In the prior list, Brad Koteswar had shown an example of a short trade on Facebook/Meta Platforms. It was shown only as an example of how to make proper trading decisions as to where and when to enter and how much to enter with. Now in hindsight, it is clear that the only way to play the game is to play it the right way. Will the stocks on the watchlist keep their uptrend? Will new uptrends begin? Will any of the uptrends become faster and steeper? Or will the ones still in an uptrend end their trend? Stocks on this watchlist will speak to you and they are always right, but can we humans ever listen to stocks? Or are we so programmed to listen only to other humans, who are usually wrong. What is a perfect chart? Some people swear by charts, others pooh-pooh it. What is the truth? Do charts work or don't they work? If they work, how to use them correctly? If they don't work, then what is the reason that they do not work? Is there such thing as the perfect chart? Should you learn all there is to learn about technical analysis? Should you learn all there is to learn about fundamental analysis? Do you need to know everything about a company's balance sheet to understand the stock's prospects? Brad Koteswar's opinion based on his own experience is that all of this is so simple, yet so hard for most people because it is hardest to keep it simplest. In this book, he tries to illustrate the simplicity of it all. Whether the human element in all of us succumbs to human weakness or manages to stick with the discipline for the longer-term will determine how successful one can be.
