Learn Adobe Flash Builder 4 by Video is an in-depth video training course and accompanying 120-page full-color book, aimed at web designers looking to make the leap to Adobe Flash Builder and Flex. These designers are largely driven by two key goals: 1. They'd like to learn how to build the interactive websites their clients are demanding, without relying on programmers for forms and widgets. 2. They'd also like to be able to more effectively design the GUI (Graphic User Interface) for data-centric applications. This DVD-book combination will provide web designers with the Flex/Flash skills necessary for to achieve these goals and begin building Rich Internet Applications. This course assumes no prior programming experience, though it will build on HTML, ActionScript, and JavaScript analogies, so that students with some familiarity with these technologies will be able to quickly adapt to the Flex/Flash environment. The course will emphasize drag-and-drop approaches while simultaneously referring to the MXML markup language. This dual design/source-mode approach will ease students absorption of key principles. The DVD-ROM is bundled with a printed book that provides supplemental material to enhance the video training. Selected videos can be downloaded for viewing on iPhones, iPods, and other compatible mobile devices.
