UHF Distance Measuring Equipment for Air Navigation Richard Camp Borden,1950

Technique for Improving the Accuracy of Air-to-ground Radio Distance Measurement Systems Lockett Eason Wood,M. C. Thompson,1969 A subsystem is described that can be added to existing radio distance measuring systems, such as SHIRAN, to increase the accuracy. The modification gives the accuracy characteristics of optical ranging systems but requires light transmission in only one direction over the path being measured. The optical subsystem can be used as seeing conditions permit, and when it cannot be used the radio system performance is not affected. Available components and technology indicate operational ranges up to several hundred kilometers.

Sensors for Industrial Inspection C.

Loughlin, 2012-12-06 Numerous areas of expertise are often required for the inspection of an individual product, with many different sensors being used within a single inspection machine. For this reason it is necessary for the production engineer to have at least a working knowledge of all the different technologies that may be employed. This book covers the majority of sensors that can be applied on the shop floor and has been designed to assist engineers with little or no previous experience in the various fields. The information that the book contains is of a highly practical nature and is based on the author's considerable first-hand experience of varied industrial applications.
