Beyond Price J. David Velleman,2015-10-08 In nine lively essays, bioethicist J. David Velleman challenges the prevailing consensus about assisted suicide and reproductive technology, articulating an original approach to the ethics of creating and ending human lives. He argues that assistance in dying is appropriate only at the point where talk of suicide is not, and he raises moral objections to anonymous donor conception. In their place, Velleman champions a morality of valuing personhood over happiness in making end-of-life decisions, and respecting the personhood of future children in making decisions about procreation. These controversial views are defended with philosophical rigor while remaining accessible to the general reader. Written over Velleman's 30 years of undergraduate teaching in bioethics, the essays have never before been collected and made available to a non-academic audience. They will open new lines of debate on issues of intense public interest.

Scott Sevener,2012-11-01 Sometimes you'd be amazed at where you can find humor when you least expect it, and over the years humor columnist Scott Sevener has certainly seen his share of suburban nightmares and grocery store mishaps! His second collection of humor columns, entitled Random Things That Amuse Me..., continues the saga of sharing these beloved tales with columns written from 2007 - 2009 and is sure to spread laughter and joy among anyone who's ever received a complaint from their HOA or been stuck behind someone driving approximately .0000002 mph.
