Polarized Light in Animal Vision Gábor Horváth, Dezső Varjú, 2013-06-29 The subject of this volume is two-fold. First, it gathers typical polarization patterns occurring in nature. Second, it surveys the polarization-sensitive animals, the physiological mechanisms and biological functions of polarization sensitivity as well as the polarization-guided behaviour in animals. The monograph is prepared for biologists, physicists and meteorologists, especially for experts of atmospheric optics and animal vision, who wish to understand and reveal the message hidden in polarization patterns of the optical environment not directly accessible to the human visual system, but measurable by polarimetry and perceived by many animals. Our volume is an attempt to build a bridge between these two physical and biological fields. In Part I we introduce the reader to the elements of imaging polarimetry. This technique can be efficiently used, e. g. in atmospheric optics, remote sensing and biology. In Part 11 we deal with typical polarization patterns of the natural optical environment. Sunrise/sunset, clear skies, cloudy skies, moonshine and total solar eclipses all mean quite different illumination conditions, which also affect the spatial distribution and strength of celestial polarization. We present the polarization patterns of the sky and its unpolarized (neutral) points under sunlit, moonlit, clear, cloudy and eclipsed conditions as a function of solar elevation. The polarization pattern of a rainbow is also shown. That part of the spectrum is derived in which perception of skylight polarization is optimal under partly cloudy skies.

The Influence of Ocular Light Perception on Metabolism in Man and in Animal F.
Hollwich,2012-12-06 This book was written to show that light is a primal element of life. All life originates and develops under the influence of the light of the sun, that super terrestrial natural force (Goethe). Sunlight influences the vital processes not only of the plant (e. g. , heliotropism, photosynthesis) and the animal (e. g. , color change, maturation of the gonads) but of man as well. The human organism too reacts heliotropically, as the 24 hour rhythm of the sleep-waking cycle demonstrates. of Artists have always perceived clearly the intensive stimulatory effect sunlight on their activity. One is reminded here of Cesare Lombroso, who wrote to his daughter that thoughts come in the greatest profusion when (my) room is flooded with the sun's rays. Richard Wagner exclaimed: If only the sun would come out, I would have the score finished in no time. Bernard Shaw had a little cottage where he worked that could be turned according to the position of the sun. The composer Humperdinck wrote: The sun is indispensable for my work; that is why it is important for me to have my study face east or south. As these few examples indicate, it is above all those active in the arts who intuitively grasp the positive influence of sunlight on the psycho-physical efficiency of their organism. In an age, however, when fluorescent lighting turns night into day, we are in danger of forgetting that man is a creature of nature as well as of culture.
