Lean In Sheryl Sandberg, 2013-03-11 The #1

international best seller In Lean In, Sheryl Sandberg reignited the conversation around women in the workplace. Sandberg is chief operating officer of Facebook and coauthor of Option B with Adam Grant. In 2010, she gave an electrifying TED talk in which she described how women unintentionally hold themselves back in their careers. Her talk, which has been viewed more than six million times, encouraged women to “sit at the table,” seek challenges, take risks, and pursue their goals with gusto. Lean In continues that conversation, combining personal anecdotes, hard data, and compelling research to change the conversation from what women can’t do to what they can. Sandberg provides practical advice on negotiation techniques, mentorship, and building a satisfying career. She describes specific steps women can take to combine professional achievement with personal fulfillment, and demonstrates how men can benefit by supporting women both in the workplace and at home. Written with humor and wisdom, Lean In is a revelatory, inspiring call to action and a blueprint for individual growth that will empower women around the world to achieve their full potential.

How to Change Your Mind Michael

Pollan, 2019-05-14 Now on Netflix as a 4-part documentary series! “Pollan keeps you turning the pages . . . cleareyed and assured.” —New York Times A #1 New York Times Bestseller, New York Times Book Review 10 Best Books of 2018, and New York Times Notable Book A brilliant and brave investigation into the medical and scientific revolution taking place around psychedelic drugs--and the spellbinding story of his own life-changing psychedelic experiences When Michael Pollan set out to research how LSD and psilocybin

(the active ingredient in magic mushrooms) are being used to provide relief to people suffering from difficult-to-treat conditions such as depression, addiction and anxiety, he did not intend to write what is undoubtedly his most personal book. But upon discovering how these remarkable substances are improving the lives not only of the mentally ill but also of healthy people coming to grips with the challenges of everyday life, he decided to explore the landscape of the mind in the first person as well as the third. Thus began a singular adventure into various altered states of consciousness, along with a dive deep into both the latest brain science and the thriving underground community of psychedelic therapists. Pollan sifts the historical record to separate the truth about these mysterious drugs from the myths that have surrounded them since the 1960s, when a handful of psychedelic evangelists inadvertently catalyzed a powerful backlash against what was then a promising field of research. A unique and elegant blend of science, memoir, travel writing, history, and medicine, How to Change Your Mind is a triumph of participatory journalism. By turns dazzling and edifying, it is the gripping account of a journey to an exciting and unexpected new frontier in our understanding of the mind, the self, and our place in the world. The true subject of Pollan's mental travelogue is not just psychedelic drugs but also the eternal puzzle of human consciousness and how, in a world that offers us both suffering and joy, we can do our best to be fully present and find meaning in our lives.

A Sermon, Preached in Boston, August 20, 1812, the Day of Humiliation and Prayer: Appointed by the President of the United States, in Consequence of T William Ellery Channing, 2018-02-12 Excerpt from A Sermon, Preached in Boston, August 20, 1812, the Day of Humiliation and Prayer: Appointed by the President of the United States, in Consequence of the Declaration of War Against Great Britain Our condition induces me to begin, with urging on you the important duty of cherishing respect for civil government, and a spirit of obedience to the laws. I am sensible, that many whom I address consider themselves called to Oppose the measures of our present rulers. Let this opposition breathe nothing of insubordination, impatience of authority, or love of change. It becomes you to remember, that government is one of the noblest and most val uable of human institutions - essential to the im provement of our nature - the spring of industry and enterprize - the shield of property and life - the re fuge of the weak and oppressed. It is to the secu rity which laws afford, that we owe the successful application of human powers - the progress of the useful and elegant arts - the Splendour of the city and the beauties of the cultivated field. Govern ment, I know, has often been perverted by ambi tion and other selfish passions; but it still holds a distinguished rank among those institutions, by which man has been rescued from barbarism, and conducted through the ruder stages of society, to the habits of order, the diversified employments and dependences, the refined and softened manners, the; intellectual, moral and religiousimprovements of the age in which we live. We are bound to re spect government, as the foundation of the social edifice - the great security for social happiness and we should carefully cherish that habit of obedienceto the laws, without which the ends of government cannot be accomplished. All wanton opposition to the constituted authorities; all censures of ru lers, originating in a factions, aspiring, or envious spirit; all unwillingness to submit to laws, which are directed to the welfare of the community, should be rebuked and repressed by the frown of public indignation. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Discourses, Delivered to the Second Presbyterian Society, in Newburyport, August 20, 1812 John Giles, 2018-11-14 Excerpt from Discourses, Delivered to the Second Presbyterian Society, in Newburyport, August 20, 1812: The Day Recommended by the President of the United States, for National Humiliation and Prayer This history conveys much instruction. To us, and is well adapted' to the designs of the day. And, before we proceed in illustrating and improving it; the speaker must premise, that it is not his intention to irritate and inflame the feelings of any. In what he may deliver upon the present occasion. His motives are, the discharge of duty, and publicly to avow his warm, firm, and decided attachment, to the country which has adopted him as its citizen, and to the illustrious character who at present presides over it; and to this duty he is urged by lively gratitude, and the solemn oath which he has taken, of undeviating allegiance to it. A Sermon, Preached in Beverly, August 20, 1812, the Day of the National Fast, on Account of War With Great-Britain Moses Dow, 2016-10-14 Excerpt from A Sermon, Preached in Beverly, August 20, 1812, the Day of the National Fast, on Account of War With Great-Britain: And Again at the Tabernacle in Salem, April 8, 1813, the Day of the Annual Fast in Massachusetts When our Saviour uttered these pathetic words, he was on his last journey to Jerusalem. There he was going to shed his blood and lay down his life for the redemption and salvation of a lost world. It was not a prospect of his own sufferings which thus affected him. These he had always expected, and was prepared to meet, with heroic and divine fortitude. But a foreboding of the miseries coming upon that ungrateful, persecuting city, by the awful justice of God, filled his sympathetic soul with the liveliest impressions of grief. He feared not death but cheerfully led the way to the place of his execution. From the mount of Olives he entered the city Jerusalem, riding upon an ass's colt, amidst the loud acclamations of joy from the whole multitude of his disciples. But when the benevolent Saviour beheld the devoted city, he burst into tears. Pondering upon the Jews' wilful Obduracy - their rejection of all the offers of grace, and the utter ruin which awaited the city, the temple, and its inhabitants, he.
