The Power of Mobile Banking Sankar Krishnan,2014-05-19 Today's tech-savvy consumers are demanding a more personal customer experience from their banks, and banks are discovering that mobile services deliver individualized, tailored experiences better than any other technology. The Power of Mobile Banking: How to Profit from the Revolution in Retail Financial Services gives banking and financial professionals a well-researched guide for becoming transformational leaders. These leaders can convert their traditional retail branch banks into streamlined systems that deliver personalized services to their customers' laptops, tablets, and smartphones. Written by Sankar Krishnan—a career banker and noted financial services industry thought leader—The Power of Mobile Banking includes strategies for adapting mobile banking practices that suit the needs of both developed and emerging markets. Krishnan also shows how bankers can make their products and services relevant to a new generation of digital natives. Krishnan explores the expanding mobile payment systems that offer a wealth of financial opportunities for banking institutions and includes information on the growth of e-commerce, which holds the potential for new and profitable ways for banks to engage with consumers. The Power of Mobile Banking outlines the practical aspects of adapting to a mobile banking strategy and shows how to put the right players in place to ensure the technology works seamlessly. Once in place, a great mobile system delivers excellent service and benefits to users, as well as real value and unique features that cement customer loyalty. The book also offers advice for bankers who want to increase their bottom line by delving into the world-wide prepaid card market. Krishnan includes a discussion on the risks and hazards of mobile banking and reveals the critical investments that banks must be willing to make in order to avoid losing customers to telecoms, retailers, and technology providers. The time for retail banking to prepare for the new paradigm is now and The Power of Mobile Banking is the guide for professionals who want to adapt, evolve, and succeed in this new mobile-driven world.

Mobile banking in the Ethiopian bank sector Dereje Tesfa,2019-08-30 Seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics - Banking, Stock Exchanges, Insurance, Accounting, grade: A, Wolkite University (College of Business and Economics), language: English, abstract: This article looks at how and why banking customers have begun to take advantage of mobile services for their banking requirements and why some of them are still hesitant to adopt mobile banking in Ethiopian banking sector. Also, this article throws light on some of the eminent challenges faced by the mobile banking service providers, which can be seen as opportunities for the financial institutions and the bankers. The internet and the mobile phone, the two technological advancements that have profoundly affected human behavior in the last decade have started to converge. Using a variety of platforms, services are being created to enable mobile devices to perform many activities of the traditional internet in a reduced format for mobile devices. One such area of activity is mobile banking. A cluster of dedicated and demanding mobile phone users (consumers) have multiplied tremendously over the years, who expect real-time information and access and high levels of service.

The Impact of New Technology and Mobile Banking in Africa. A Case Study of the Standard Bank South Africa Difrine Madara,2019-11-28 Seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics - Banking, Stock Exchanges, Insurance, Accounting, grade: A, Kenyatta University, language: English, abstract: This paper explores the impact of new technology and mobile banking in the entire financial sector in Africa. The paper focuses on the case of Standard Bank South Africa to assist in understanding the challenges faced by the major commercial banks in adopting new banking technologies in less developed worlds, such as Africa. To realize the primary goal of this paper, the researcher discusses how technology can help Standard Bank to move forward in the aftermath of the 2008/9 financial crisis and the new opportunities for the bank to grow its financial service businesses. Furthermore, the research suggests how new technological applications in the financial services sector can help Africans to escape poverty and if diversification is appropriate for a diverse bank, such as Standard Bank. Technology has immensely transformed business-to-business and within business transactions and interactions. Technological applications are enabling reconfiguration of design, production, marketing, and service delivery in most businesses. For instance, the design reconfigurations have allowed for the implementation of online marketplaces, mobile business activities, such as mobile banking, and better risk assessment. In the emerging financial markets of Africa, disruptive market innovations and reconstituted value chains have become key drivers of the growingfinancial services industry. Despite the huge benefits of financial innovations, conventional financial services providers, such as banks, finance companies, microfinance institutions, and insurance must be wary of the new risks and challenges posed by these financial technologies. For a major bank like the Standard Bank, financial innovations, such as e-banking and mobile banking present both new opportunities and threats to its core businesses.

The Impact of Electronic Banking on Bank Performance Soukeme Ebikeme,2020-08-03 Research Paper (undergraduate) from the year 2017 in the subject Business economics - Banking, Stock Exchanges, Insurance, Accounting, grade: 3.52, , course: BANKING FINANCE, language: English, abstract: This study intends to discuss and exchange views on the impact of electronic banking on the performance of banks in Nigeria. Banking has come a long way from the time of ledger cards and other manual filing systems. Most banks today have electronics systems to handle their daily voluminous task of information retrieval storage and processing. Three or four decades ago, banking was a simple business; customers saved their money with banks and received their financial services from banks. When customers open account they received passbook from the banks with which the account would be operated and when it is a current account, they received cheque books for the same purpose.

Electronic Banking SCN Education B.V.,2013-11-11 The world of banking and financial services is in the midst of dramatic change, moving away from traditional brick and mortar branches and focusing on new delivery channels, to improve customer service and give 24-hours-a-day access to information and transactions. Marketing and Mobile Financial Services Aijaz A. Shaikh,Heikki Karjaluoeto,2018-12-21 Mobile financial services (MFS) are of major interest and importance to both researchers and practitioners. The role played by nonbanking actors including telecoms and FinTech firms as well as other participants, such as PayPal and Amazon, in developing and deploying innovative financial and payment services is undeniable. Peer2peer (P2P) payments from nonbank services are becoming increasingly commonplace and will shortly be codified by EC (EU?) regulations requiring banks to provide access to consumer data for third-party app developers and service providers. Three major mobile financial systems—mobile banking, mobile payments, and branchless banking—currently dominate the electronic retail banking sector. Although interconnected and interrelated, their business models, regulatory frameworks, and target markets are distinct. This book provides a unified perspective on MFS and discusses its evolution, growth, and future, as well as identifying the frameworks, stakeholders, and technologies used in financial information systems in general and MFS in particular. Academics and researchers in digital and financial marketing will find this book an invaluable resource, as will bank executives, regulators, policy makers, FinTech professionals, and anyone interested in how mobile technology, social media and financial services will increasingly intersect.

E-banking: An Essential Sector in Banking Industry Salman Ahmed, 2013-01-03 Master's Thesis from the year 2012 in the subject Business economics - Banking, Stock Exchanges, Insurance, Accounting, , course: Banking & Finance, language: English, abstract: Our this research report is based on the E-banking technology in which customers can access more accurate, faster and quick banking services from the computerized banking system. This system has been adopted by the international banks as well as by the local banks in Pakistan to give efficient services to their customers. The purpose of our research work is carried out to release the importance of E-banking in banking industry, which is being implemented by the banks for providing the electronic services to the customers and to what extent E-banking is growing and giving the benefits to both the customers as well as the bankers. This research work will also help to determine whether the E-banking services are efficient, accurate and rapid in banking industry.

Banking the Poor World Bank, 2009 How many people are using banking services in poor countries? What financial services are used? And how could access to banking services be expanded to include more people? 'Banking the Poor' explores these questions, through responses to questions in surveys undertaken in 54 countries, mostly in Africa. The biggest contribution of this study is new data. 'Banking the Poor' collects information from two sources: central banks and leading commercial banks in each surveyed country. It explores associations between countries' banking policies and practices and their levels of financial access, measured in terms of the numbers of bank account per thousand adults. 'Banking the Poor' finds that the surest way to increased access is job growth that leads to more income. But it also finds that more complexity and costs such as monthly fees are linked to lower access. Access is not enhanced by loading up accounts with features that enhance convenience such as overdraft provision. Instead these features appeal to people who are already banked. Even mobile banking in its current form is primarily aimed at existing clients. On the other hand, availability of a basic no-frills bank account with minimal charges is linked to more access.

Retail Banking Technology Suresh Samudrala, 2015-01-30 Banking and financial services organizations are one of the largest consumers of information technology, deploying large IT workforce worldwide. Banking Services for Everyone? Thorsten Beck, Asl? Demirgüç-Kunt, Maria Soledad Martinez Peria, 2006 Using information from 193 banks in 58 countries, the authors develop and analyze indicators of physical access, affordability, and eligibility barriers to deposit, loan, and payment services. They find substantial cross-country variation in barriers to banking and show that in many countries these barriers can potentially exclude a significant share of the population from using banking services. Correlations with bank- and country-level variables show that bank size and the availability of physical infrastructure are the most robust predictors of barriers. Further, the authors find evidence that in more competitive, open, and transparent economies, and in countries with better contractual and informational frameworks, banks impose lower barriers. Finally, though foreign banks seem to charge higher fees than other banks, in foreign dominated banking systems fees are lower and it is easier to open bank accounts and to apply for loans. On the other hand, in systems that are predominantly government-owned, customers pay lower fees but also face greater restrictions in terms of where to apply for loans and how long it takes to have applications processed. These findings have important implications for policy reforms to broaden access.

Service Promotion and its Impact on Building Customer Value Sanjeev Pradhan, 2018-05-17 Case Study from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics - Offline Marketing and Online Marketing, grade: Ass. Professor, , course: Management and IT, language: English, abstract: For banks to attract new business and sustain the loyalty of existing customers, consumers must be able to reach financial institutions through multiple channels. With consumer interest that was historically focused on Branch Banking, currently fast changing towards Mobile & Internet banking – the level of popularity and number of possible services it carries has a great potential. Through the use of wireless banking as a customer channel, as well as an internal tool within financial institutions, the combination of Mobile and wireless technologies with the wide variety of portable devices available today, enables new revenue opportunities for financial services organizations. This provides a new channel that can be used to refresh and expand the customer base, attract prime customers and enhance loyalty. The research topic has a greater importance in today's context in terms of customer retention. The mobile banking services provided by NIBL showed that the customers has a high degree of trust building factor and has made their financial transactions safe and easy to operate. Though a little consumer awareness is required at certain level to the first time users in order to boost their confidence to operate easily. The revolution in the field of technology has made a boon for the society and at the same time high risk factors are also associated with it. This research has made an extensive contribution in the area of promotional activities where personal interaction and advertisement program is a must for maintaining long term customer relationship. Moreover, providing better services with added value has made the customer to become more loyal towards their mobile banking services.

On the Effectiveness of Bank Innovations on Financial Performance of Bank of Kigali Ltd in Rwanda (2009–2016) Eric Munyaneza, 2019-07-11 Thesis (M.A.) from the year

2017 in the subject Business economics – Investment and Finance, grade: DISTINCTION, , course: MBA, language: English, abstract: This work analyzes the effectiveness of bank innovations on financial performance of Bank of Kigali Ltd in Rwanda (2009–2016). Banking innovation has played an important role in improving service delivery standards in the Banking institution. In its simplest form, Automated Teller Machines (ATMs), POS, credit cards, mobile banking and other deposit machines now allow consumers carry out banking transactions beyond banking hours. The main objective of the study was to establish the effectiveness of bank innovations on financial performance of Bank of Kigali Ltd in Rwanda. The population under study is 35 staffs of Bank of Kigali Ltd to be given questionnaires and interviewed. A descriptive survey research design was adapted where a total sample of 35 respondents was selected. The primary data were collected using structured questionnaires and interview to address the effect of banking innovation on financial performance of Bank of Kigali. Consequently, both qualitative and quantitative data were collected. The first hypothesis of the study was analyzed on effect of bank innovation on income of Bank of Kigali Ltd. The findings shows 35 staffs of Bank of Kigali Ltd have responded to the administered questionnaire, their mean on the ATM, POS, credits and debit cards, mobile banking internet banking, electronic fund transfer, and digital innovation are strong and their standard deviation are heterogeneity. The second hypothesis was verified where the bank innovations performance were indicated that customers, deposits, incomes increased year to years, loans to assets respect the standard of BNR which says that loans does not exceed 80% of customer deposit and ROE ratio is the following: 29%, 19%, 16%, 19%, 21%, 20%, 21% and 24% respectively. The third hypothesis of the study was to establish the comparison of bank innovations and performance of Bank of Kigali Ltd where before innovation where before innovation number of customers were 135,564 from 2009 while after establishing innovation become 262,284 in 2016. The branches, POS, Mobibank, and ATM have been increased after implementation of innovation in Bank of Kigali. The fourth hypothesis which determines the correlation between bank innovation and performance of Bank of Kigali revealed that there is a strong relationship between two variables which means banking innovation contributed to the performance of Bank of Kigali.
