Business Ethics Bob Tricker, Gretchen Tricker, 2014-01-03 Traditionally, books on business ethics focus on CSR, companies' relations with their stakeholders, and corporate citizenship. More recently, green credentials and sustainability have been added to that agenda. Unconventionally, this book argues that business ethics are basic to running business, not a separate subject. They are inherent to the governance and management of every organization, not an optional exercise in corporate citizenship. Business ethics concern behaviour in business and the behaviour of business. Decisions at every level in a company have ethical implications – strategically in the board room, managerially throughout the organization, and operationally in all of its activities. The use, and sometimes the abuse, of corporate power, the process of corporate governance, raises ethical issues. Business involves risk-taking, whether decisions are at the strategic, managerial, or operational level. Exposure to ethical risk needs to be part of every organization's strategy formulation, policy making, and enterprise risk management. Designed to be read by both undergraduates and postgraduates, this book is a primer on ethics in business. It is also relevant to ethics courses that are now part of many legal, accountancy and other professional examinations. The book is not about moral philosophy, nor does it prescribe appropriate standards of behaviour or recommend economic, legal or political solutions. Rather it enables readers to recognize ethical issues in business, to respond appropriately, and to embed ethics in business processes. The book not only considers what business ethics are, and why they are important, but offers practical approaches on how to develop a successful corporate ethics culture.

CONCUR 2008 - Concurrency Theory Franck van Breugel, Marsha Chechik, 2008-08-19 This volume contains the proceedings of the 19th International Conference on Concurrency Theory (CONCUR 2008) which took place at the University of Toronto in Toronto, Canada, August 19–22, 2008. CONCUR 2008 was co-located with the 27th Annual ACM SIGACT-SIGOPS Symposium on the Principles of Distributed Computing (PODC 2008), and the two conferences shared two invited speakers, some social events, and a symposium celebrating the lifelong research contributions of Nancy Lynch. The purpose of the CONCUR conferences is to bring together researchers, developers, and students in order to advance the theory of concurrency and promote its applications. Interest in this topic is continuously growing, as a consequence of the importance and ubiquity of concurrent systems and their applications, and of the scientific relevance of their foundations. Topics include basic models of concurrency (such as abstract machines, domain theoretic models, game theoretic models, process algebras, and Petri nets), logics for concurrency (such as modal logics, temporal logics and resource logics), models of specialized systems (such as biology-inspired systems, circuits, hybrid systems, mobile systems, multi-core processors, probabilistic systems, real-time systems, synchronous systems, and Web services), verification and analysis techniques for concurrent systems (such as abstract interpretation, atomicity checking, model checking, race detection, run-time verification, state-space exploration, static analysis, synthesis, testing, theorem proving and type systems), and related programming models (such as distributed or object-oriented). Of the 120 regular and 5 tool papers submitted this year, 33 regular and 2 tool papers were accepted for presentation and are included in the present volume.

Funds from the Bancor token offering went to the Bprotocol Foundation located in Switzerland. The Security and Exchange Commission (SEC) released guidance on initial coin offerings in July 2017. The central issue in this case is whether the Bancor token is a security under the 2017 SEC guidance.

Comparative Study on BBA Determination Using Different Distances of Interval Numbers Jiankun Ding, Deqiang Han, Jean Dezert, Yi Yang, Dempster-Shafer theory (DST) is an important theory for information fusion. However, in DST how to determinate the basic belief assignment (BBA) is still an open issue. The interval number based BBA determination method is simple and effective, where the features of different classes' samples are modeled using the interval numbers, i.e., an interval number model is constructed for each focal element. Then, the distances of interval numbers are used for measuring the similarity degrees between the testing sample and each focal element, and the similarity degrees are used for determining the BBA. The definition of interval numbers' distance is crucial for the effectiveness of the interval number based BBA determination methods. In this paper, we use different interval numbers' distances for determining BBAs. By using the artificial data set and the Iris data set of open UCI data base, respectively, we compare and analyze the determination of BBAs with different distances.
