Christie Gove-Berg

Wildlife Rehabilitation for Confiscated Psittacines Patricia J. Latas DVM, Brooke Durham, 2020-12-06 Guidelines and suggestions are introduced in this publication for the care and rehabilitation of confiscated wild psittacines. Included are best practices, highest standards, and practical advice for the wildlife rehabilitator, veterinarian, and animal care personnel working with birds which have been seized by authorities and are intended for release to the wild.

The Scoop from "Bird Poop" Bebe McCasland, 2009 Written from the birds' points of view, the tales in this collection feature dramatic bird-rescue stories ranging from the smallest hummingbird to the largest golden eagle. Filled with informative facts about the vast variety of bird species rescued-whether a member of a native species or one of the migratory visitors passing through the Texas Flyway-this volume discusses the miraculous similarities and differences of each species. Focusing on the importance of conservation and illuminating the joys of rescuing injured wildlife, the stories have one thread that ties them all together: a feisty, articulate avian champion is both the author and the heroine of this eloquently delivered collection based on real-life efforts.

Birds of a Feather Rebecca Stockslager, 2009-10-06 A beautiful collection of personal stories and photos by people who live with birds. Whether you are considering owning a bird, already live with a bird, or just want some insight into that crazy bird person you know, here is an excellent depiction of real life with birds. An Introduction to Aquatic Bird Rehabilitation January O. Bill, Laura Corsiglia, Vann Masvidal, Monte Merrick, Shannon M. Riggs (D.V.M.), 2012-03-12 Wildlife rehabilitation is the science and art of caring for injured wild animals, and releasing them back to the wild. Water birds have unique needs that can challenge novice and experienced caregivers alike. This book is for wildlife rehabilitators by wildlife rehabilitators, including a wildlife veterinarian. It offers strategies and principles that can be applied whether you are an individually permitted rehabilitator or work with a small or large wildlife center. Specific techniques discussed include assessing and restoring waterproofing, avoiding captivity-related problems, detecting parasites, and providing appropriate housing and diet for the species in care. You will also find extensive references, a glossary, medical reference, a D-I-Y protective keel wrap, how to make a filtered therapy pool, and more. An Introduction to Aquatic Bird Rehabilitation is also of interest to everyone who loves birds and would like to know more about the discipline of wildlife rehabilitation. Animal Rescue, Book 3, It's for the Birds! Penelope Dyan, 2015-07-09 More than 400 seabirds were treated at the International Bird Rescue's (IBRRC) Northern California bird center after they were caught up in a deadly algae foam along the Pacific Northwest coast. Oregon and Washington wildlife rescue centers were overwhelmed with epidemic numbers of wet, cold, and dying sea birds soiled by an unusual sea slime. When author Penelope Dyan and photographer John D. Weigand arrived at the center in Fairfield, California that afternoon, they had no idea they would be returning to witness a massive bird rescue and would see the tools they were shown and photographed put into action. Bird's heads were covered to ease stress as the volunteers worked on them, and it was clear they would be working through the night just to initially process the birds; and then the next morning they would have to begin washing them! It was a job of massive proportions. It would take weeks, perhaps months to return these birds to their habitats. This is the third book in the Animal Rescue Series, and it is truly a book for the birds! Dyan and Weigand have created a book meant for children that is perfect for your coffee table. Once again, Bellissima publishes a book with a purpose, reminding us that before all the birds fall from the sky, we need to do something to protect our environment. and that we also need to support the many volunteers who work at rescue centers like this one, because we are all a part of creation, and man was (after all) put on this earth to have dominion over its creatures. And that means we must protect them.

Hope Mountain Karla Martinson, 2017-07-03 Hope Mountain Wild Bird Rescue is first of a series. A work of fiction showing off Montana Wildlife. Written in lyrical form that can actually be sung to. I used Rock-a-bye baby. A terrible thunderstorm came with destructive power. A young great horned owl and baby black crow are lost, blown far away from their nests by the wind. A kind ranger rides in to see the damage. The young birds are found starving and lost. He scoops them up and takes them back to his 1950's fire lookout cabin. That is where it all begins! Wait! Here comes a young turkey, focused on a grasshopper she becomes completely lost! She finds herself on the doorstep of the lookout with two loud and active young birds. I wrote this story because my mom and dad rescued people. Our Home was a revolving door of hospitality, fun and spaghetti! My father was a career Fish and Wildlife employee.
