Bear Grylls

Human Aggression Robert A. Baron, 2013-04-17 also many newer lines of research, to which I will return below, are represented in various chapters. And finally, I have included a separate unit on methods for the study of aggression—a feature that I believe to be unique to the present volume. In these ways, I have attempted to produce a text that is as broad and eclectic in coverage as I could make it. While the present volume grew, in part, out of my desire to produce what I thought might prove to be a useful teaching aid, it also developed out of a second major motive. During the past few years, a large number of new—and to me, exciting—lines of investigation have emerged in rapid order. These have been extremely varied in scope, including, among many others, such diverse topics as the effects of sexual arousal upon aggression, the impact of environmental factors (e. g. , heat, noise, crowding) upon such behavior, interracial aggression, and the influence of heightened self-awareness. Despite the fact that such topics have already generated a considerable amount of research, they were not, to my knowledge, adequately represented in any existing volume. Given this state of affairs, it seemed to me that a reasonably comprehensive summary of this newer work might prove both useful and timely.

My Journey to Self-Discovery Josephine Jijingi-Ajiva, 2021-10-21 I have always wanted to be a writer and tried writing several manuscripts when I was much younger. I did not know how to go about publishing them and there was no one to enlighten me. I resorted to writing story lines for friends and even attempted writing movie scripts for a few friends too, but I knew something was wrong somewhere because I remained basically unfulfilled. My break came when a friend sent a link to me to join an online training on digital publishing. I joined the basic class immediately and proceeded to register for the Masters class. I nearly quit after the first day but something inside me encouraged me to hang on. I did and despite so many hurdles, I'm happy I did because I met a man whom God used to turn my life around. I met Arch. Solomon Okpa, also known as Oga patapata, a no nonsense man who helped me to see myself as God sees me. This piece is a compilation of both the Basic and Masters lecture notes as given by Oga patapata and my basic class coach; Prof. Charity Angya. Together, they pushed me, encouraged and sometimes made me angry to a point that I determined to succeed. The experience was one that moved me from my comfort zone to my wonderful journey to self-realisation.
