American Theatre Gerald Bordman,1996-11-21 This book concludes Gerald Bordman's acclaimed survey of American non-musical theatre. It deals with the years 1930 to 1969, a period when the number of yearly new plays was shrinking, but a period during which American drama as a whole entered the world stage and became a dominant force. With works like Eugene O'Neill's Long Day's Journey into Night, Tennessee Williams's A Streetcar Named Desire, and Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman, American theater finally reached adulthood both dramatically and psychologically. Bordman's lively, authoritative study covers every Broadway production, as well as every major off-Broadway show. His discussion moves season by season and show by show in chronological order; he offers plot synopses and details the physical production, directors, players, theaters, and newspaper reviews. This book stands together with the preceding volumes of American Theatre as the premier history of American drama.

The British Comic Catalogue, 1874-1974 Denis Gifford,1975 This is the world's first attempt at a catalogue of comics. It aims to list the title of every comic published in Great Britain, from the first one in 1874 to the latest in 1974: some 1,900 titles in a century of comics. The entries contain details as to date of first and last issues; total number of issues published; names of publisher and distributor; original price and subsequent changes; amalgamations and incorporations of and into other comics; names of comic strip characters and their original artists with years of first appearance; names of editors, and even details
