Kate Weindorfer Sally Schnackenberg,1995 Kate Weindorfer, the Woman Behind the Man and the Mountain was initially written as a minor thesis to complete the requirements for the author's Bachelor of Arts Degree at the University of Tasmania in Launceston. The thesis was awarded a high distinction from two examiners, one of whom described it as . . . one of the most impressive local history undergraduate minor theses I have read. It is about Kate Weindorfer who was a full partner in the initial Cradle Mountain enterprise and her influence on both her husband Gustav and Cradle Mountain history has, until now, never been completely revealed.

Kindred Kate Legge,2019-03-05 He was an Austrian immigrant; she came from Tasmania. He grew up beside the Carinthian Alps; she climbed mountains when few women dared. Their honeymoon glimpse of Cradle Mountain lit an urge that filled their waking hours. Others might have kept this splendour to themselves, but Gustav Weindorfer and Kate Cowle sensed the significance of a place they sought to share with the world. When they stood on the peak in the heat of January 1910, they imagined a national park for all. Kindred: A Cradle Mountain Love Story traces the achievements of these unconventional adventurers and their fight to preserve the wilderness where they pioneered eco-tourism. Neither lived to see their vision fully realised: the World Heritage listed landscape is now visited by 250,000 people each year. Award-winning journalist Kate Legge tells the remarkable story behind the creation of the Cradle Mountain sanctuary through the characters at its heart.
