Policing Islam Harold Tollefson,1999-11-30 The role of the police force was central in the politics and social life of Egypt during the British occupation between 1882 and 1914. Egyptians initially resisted British encroachment into the sphere of autonomy that had been reserved to them in police matters. However, preferring indirect rule to overt manifestations of power that would be signified by the use of the army, the British used the issue of reform to tighten their hold on Egypt by means of the police. This study applies modern criminological theory to examine the attendant political repression, torture, corruption, and rising crime that soon followed. Instead of the more professional and community-oriented police force exemplified by the bobbies in England, the British opted for a militarized Egyptian police force, better suited to the repression of political dissent than of ordinary crime. Tollefson seeks to account for rising crime in Egypt, which Lord Cromer, the British Consul-General between 1883 and 1907, referred to as Egypt's worst problem during his tenure. Under British control, defects in the police such as low pay, harsh discipline, and maltreatment of suspects persisted, and ordinary crime increased. This work confirms what students of colonial policing have come to appreciate; the police performed key security and social maintenance roles in colonial and quasi-colonial situations.

Programma 2121 Nadia Boschi,2021-11-10T00:00:00+01:00

“Programma 2121 has overcome some of the usual criticalities due to the promotion of the rehabilitative ideal (Art. 27 of the Italian Constitution) and because of the innovative and differentiating characteristics. These include: the presence of a global business; the dimension of a multi-actor collaborative partnership - which unites institutionally and structurally different realities toward a common goal; and the approach, based on the work placement aimed at social inclusion, able to combine training and work experience in view of an effective and sustainable reintegration into society through work. The possibility of learning and working, offered to prisoners as in Programma 2121, has the potential to break a chain of poverty and marginalization, contributing significantly to the achievement of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Particularly goal: 1 - Zero Poverty; 4 - Providing quality education and learning opportunities for all; 8 - Promoting inclusive economic growth with full and productive employment and decent work for all and 10 - Reducing inequality”.

Barry Lawson's Future Garry Johnson,2013-01 In the year

2121 things are different. The United States of America is experiencing a Golden Age. Business and Government operate separately within boundaries. Poverty, Employment, homelessness, Hunger and Ignorance are addressed by the government. A life of meaning and purpose is within the grasp of any American with the ability and desire to be successful. In this world of new found freedoms people still push the limits of their existence. Crime still exists and thrives in such a society where so much is placed on being a productive individual who is able to fulfill personal and grand humanitarian dreams. Crime provides for many a life of excitement filled with risky actions, high rewards and loads of adrenaline. Barry Lawson is a Gambler and auto race enthusiast. He has risked his life and traveled the world. He is a rudderless carefree individual who most would agree is not the ideal citizen. It doesn't matter because he has enough money and excitement to make him interesting to others. The problem is that the love of his life has been murdered and he is committed to avenge his broken heart. The odds are stacked against him. The Mob still exists and they are responsible for his pain. Garry A Johnson weaves a futuristic tale into levels of business and society where danger looms.
