Hairdressing for Women and Men Gaudreau, Ghislaine,Terrance Ryan Hughes,Jacqueline Roy,1989

Bilingual lexicon of hairdressing La maison du dictionnaire,2011-12-05 Toute la terminologie utile pour le management d'un salon de coiffure ; la prise de rendezvous ; l'accueil des clients ; les noms des produits, des soins ; les couleurs ; l'exécution des techniques de coupe, coiffage, coloration et permanente etc. Comment dit-on en anglais « brevet professionnel » ? Comment traduire « filet à cheveux » ? « fer à trois branches » ? « tondeuse » ? « lotion ondulante », « bac à shampooing » ? Ce lexique est également très riche en expressions et dialogues utiles : - comment proposer une date de rendez-vous à un(e) client(e) ? - que dire pour faire patienter un(e) client(e) ? - comment demander à un(e) client(e) combien de fois par semaine il/elle se lave les cheveux ? - comment demander à un(e) client(e) s'il/elle veut une raie au milieu ou sur le côté ? - comment dire en anglais : « rendez-vous le vendredi 5 avril à 9h45 » ? Voici enfin un lexique bilingue de la coiffure qui deviendra vite indispensable aux élèves en Brevet professionnel de coiffure (préparation au diplôme d'État), en CAP et en BTS, aux fabricants de matériel et de produits, ainsi qu'aux coiffeurs installés dans des zones touristiques et à ceux qui désirent s'installer dans des pays anglo-saxons. Nous utilisons, et jetons, chacun près de 5 packagings par jour. Ce passage de l'emballage au packaging n'est pas anodin. Il semble résumer à lui seul l'évolution du marketing dans une économie du libre-service : pourrait-on véritablement identifier des marques comme Tabasco, Coca-Cola, BabyBel, ou Canard WC sans leur packaging ? Si l'on admet l'idée baudrillardienne que la société de consommation est caractérisée par le fait que des individus qui achètent des produits endossent les styles de vie qui leur sont attachés, alors il faut bien accepter que le packaging est le vêtement symbolique du produit mais aussi celui du consommateur ! Situé à la croisée du design graphique et du design volume, le packaging a des fonctions techniques, logistiques mais aussi sémiotiques – il est l'un des principaux vecteurs de communication de la marque – que cet ouvrage explore et explicite.

Creative Chicago Hans Ulrich Obrist, Alison Cuddy, 2019 On September 29, 2018, before a live audience at Navy Pier in Chicago, international curator Hans Ulrich Obrist conducted his first US Marathon interview session as part of Art Design Chicago, a yearlong celebration of Chicago's art and design legacy initiated by the Terra Foundation for American Art. Obrist, who has undertaken a life-long project of interviewing cultural figures, spoke with more than twenty of Chicago's most innovative and influential artists, designers, architects, writers, and other creatives. In their interviews, this diverse group of creatives provided insights into their artistic processes, influences, and ideas about and hopes for their shared city of Chicago. Among the participants were social-practice artist/developer Theaster Gates, architect Jeanne Gang, writer Eve Ewing, Hairy Who artists Art Green and Suellen Rocca, performance/installation artist Shani Crowe, and the city's cultural historian Tim Samuelson. Creative Chicago: An Interview Marathon serves as documentation for this event, including edited transcripts of the interviews, biographies of the participants, photos of the event, and images of the artists' work.

Theater of the Mind Neil Verma,2012-06-29 For generations, fans and critics have characterized classic American radio drama as a “theater of the mind.” This book unpacks that characterization by recasting the radio play as an aesthetic object within its unique historical context. In Theater of the Mind, Neil Verma applies an array of critical methods to more than six thousand recordings to produce a vivid new account of radio drama from the Depression to the Cold War. In this sweeping exploration of dramatic conventions, Verma investigates legendary dramas by the likes of Norman Corwin, Lucille Fletcher, and Wyllis Cooper on key programs ranging from The Columbia Workshop, The Mercury Theater on the Air, and Cavalcade of America to Lights Out!, Suspense, and Dragnet to reveal how these programs promoted and evolved a series of models of the imagination. With close readings of individual sound effects and charts of broad trends among formats, Verma not only gives us a new account of the most flourishing form of genre fiction in the mid-twentieth century but also presents a powerful case for the central place of the aesthetics of sound in the history of modern experience.
