100 Ways to Treat Your Mate Like Royalty: : Under $10

Paulette Kouffman Sherman, 2012-09-01 This book was inspired by Dr. Sherman's work with singles and couples during this strained economy. Singles and couples were working more, had less money and energy and were saying that they couldn't afford romance and dates to strengthen and prioritize their relationship. Dr. Sherman (aka Dr. Date) loves romance and knew that creating love did not require a dollar value. Love and romance only requires an open heart, creativity and thoughtfulness. When Dr. Sherman first dated her husband they were both starting out in the mental health field and they went on lots of free, inexpensive dates. This was a very happy time, so she knew that it was possible. This book offers 100 ways to treat your mate/date like royalty under $10 (whether you are dating, in a long-term relationship or married). It reminds you to nurture your relationship and have fun together no matter what is happening in your lives. It's so important! Your relationship is the foundation for your family and a place you can return to and refuel. This book is also a great keepsake and photo album. Under each romantic suggestion there is room for you to paste a snapshot of that date or memory, as a couple. So for example, you can put a photograph of the two of you having a picnic on the beach. At the end of a year you will have proof of how very romantic you are with 100 memories to keep and share! You don't have wait for Valentine's Day or your anniversary to show your significant other that you care. This book will make it easy and cheap to demonstrate affection daily and it will get you in the mind set to discover your own creative, romantic ideas.

Modern Romance Aziz Ansari, Eric Klinenberg, 2016-06-14 The #1 New York Times Bestseller "An engaging look at the often head-scratching, frequently infuriating mating behaviors that shape our love lives." —Refinery 29 A hilarious, thoughtful, and in-depth exploration of the pleasures and perils of modern romance from Aziz Ansari, the star of Master of None and one of this generation's sharpest comedic voices At some point, every one of us embarks on a journey to find love. We meet people, date, get into and out of relationships, all with the hope of finding someone with whom we share a deep connection. This seems standard now, but it's wildly different from what people did even just decades ago. Single people today have more romantic options than at any point in human history. With technology, our abilities to connect with and sort through these options are staggering. So why are so many people frustrated? Some of our problems are unique to our time. "Why did this guy just text me an emoji of a pizza?" "Should I go out with this girl even though she listed Combos as one of her favorite snack foods? Combos?!" "My girlfriend just got a message from some dude named Nathan. Who's Nathan? Did he just send her a photo of his penis? Should I check just to be sure?" But the transformation of our romantic lives can't be explained by technology alone. In a short period of time, the whole culture of finding love has changed dramatically. A few decades ago, people would find a decent person who lived in their neighborhood. Their families would meet and, after deciding neither party seemed like a murderer, they would get married and soon have a kid, all by the time they were twenty-four. Today, people marry later than ever and spend years of their lives on a quest to find the perfect person, a soul mate. For years, Aziz Ansari has been aiming his comic insight at modern romance, but for Modern Romance, the book, he decided he needed to take things to another level. He teamed up with NYU sociologist Eric Klinenberg and designed a massive research project, including hundreds of interviews and focus groups conducted everywhere from Tokyo to Buenos Aires to Wichita. They analyzed behavioral data and surveys and created their own online research forum on Reddit, which drew thousands of messages. They enlisted the world's leading social scientists, including Andrew Cherlin, Eli Finkel, Helen Fisher, Sheena Iyengar, Barry Schwartz, Sherry Turkle, and Robb Willer. The result is unlike any social science or humor book we've seen before. In Modern Romance, Ansari combines his irreverent humor with cutting-edge social science to give us an unforgettable tour of our new romantic world.
