Small Bite, Big Threat Jagriti Narang,Manika Khanuja,2020-10-29 Mosquitoes are significant vectors that transmit various pathogens to humans and other mammals. Mosquitoes seem to be omnipresent and easily breed in climates favourable to them. Life cycle of the Aedes species of mosquitoes is similar to others of its genera. This book focuses on Aedes mosquitoes that are responsible for many dreadful diseases and discusses every stage in the life cycle of the species. The contributing authors of this book have extensive teaching and research experience in the field of detection of viruses of Dengue, Chikungunya, yellow fever and West Nile. One of the contributing authors, Prof. Vinod Joshi, has researched on Dengue viruses for 17 years. The book provides a detailed account of the distribution of Aedes mosquitoes, their role as a vector and their control through various methods. Currently, there has been increased interest among researchers to mitigate the threat caused by Aedes mosquitoes and substantial investigation is being done on the mosquito's history, in characterizing present circumstances and to collaborate future efforts.

Small And Intermediate Urban Centres Jorge Hardoy, David Satterthwaite, Denise

Stewart, 2019-06-21 This book is the result of contributions, help and support from numerous people and several agencies. We are particularly grateful to the Swedish Agency for Research Cooperation with Developing Countries, the Swedish Council for Building Research and the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat) for funding the work on which this volume is based - and doing so before the subject had come to be regarded as important and relevant. Within these agencies, special thanks is due to Olle Edqvist, Pietro Garau, Bruce Hyland, Bob and Ingrid Munro and Arcot Ramachandran. We are also grateful to our friends and colleagues in IIED's Human Settlements Programme who have worked with us on this subject - Jane Bicknell, Silvia Blitzer, Ana Maria Cabrera, Maria Graciela Caputo and Julio Davila. Julio Davila deserves special thanks for his help in refining and editing the final text; so too do Jane Bicknell and Ana Maria Cabrera for patiently putting up with endless last minute changes to the text.

Resgate tipográfico Érico Lebedenco, 2022-06-09 O assunto deste livro é a prática do resgate tipográfico no design de tipos. Objetiva-se a elaboração de um referencial teórico-metodológico para o estudo e a produção de fontes digitais. Embora essa atividade seja vista na tipografia há muitos anos, as informações disponíveis são fragmentadas e, por vezes, subjetivas. Com esta obra, busca-se investigar as características fundamentais da prática, as diferentes abordagens, segundo designers de tipos, e sua relevância em um contexto latino-americano de design. Trata-se do resultado de uma pesquisa exploratória qualitativa, na qual foram empregados diferentes procedimentos metodológicos.

Durante a pesquisa, o estudo bibliográfico no campo do design gráfico e da tipografia foi complementado com o uso de questionários semiestruturados para entrevistas com designers brasileiros e estrangeiros. Também, incluíram-se estudos de caso com resgates tipográficos desenvolvidos por designers de países da América Latina. As entrevistas e os casos permitiram o entendimento do fenômeno, evidenciando a natureza multidisciplinar da prática. A natureza dos resgates vai além do saudosismo ou da cópia, uma vez que a atividade oferece oportunidades para a interpretação do passado, possibilitando a construção de novos significados nas formas das letras.

Strategies and Tools for a Sustainable Rural Rio de Janeiro Udo Nehren, Sabine Schlüter, Claudia Raedig, Dietmar Sattler, Helga Hissa, 2018-08-16 This book is a compilation of recent developments in land, ecosystem, and water management in the Brazilian state of Rio de Janeiro. The state is located in the biodiversity hotspot of the Atlantic Forest (Mata Atlântica), a biome characterized by high biological diversity and endemism. At the same time the state of Rio de Janeiro emerged to one of the economic hubs in Latin America. This development process has been accompanied by population growth, industrialization, urbanization, as well as consumption and degradation of land and water resources. In the past years many efforts have been made to stop or at least slow down these degradation processes and restore degraded environments with the overall goal to bring together sustainable management of natural resources, nature conservation, and economic development. An overview is provided of the different strategies and tools that have been developed in the fields of agriculture, ecosystem management and biodiversity, integrated water management, land restoration, disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation, as well as environmental governance and economic instruments. This book covers a wide spectrum from applied research to science-policy interfaces, planning concepts, and technical tools and has a model character for other rural areas in Latin America. Target groups are scientists, practitioners, policy makers and graduate students in the field of environmental management. The different chapters are written by researchers and practitioners of the German-Brazilian project INTECRAL (Integrated Eco Technologies and Services for a Sustainable Rural Rio de Janeiro), the rural development program Rio Rural under the state secretary for agriculture and animal husbandry, as well as invited scientists from Brazilian universities and research institutes. It bridges existing gaps between science, policies, and practice in rural development.

Designing Small Parks Ann Forsyth, Laura Musacchio, 2005-10-24 Designing Small Parks: A Manual for Addressing Social and Ecological Concerns provides guidelines for building better parks by integrating design criteria with current social and natural science research. Small parks are too often relegated to being the step-child of municipal and metropolitan open space systems because of assumptions that their small size and isolation limits their recreational capacity and makes them ecologically less valuable than large city and county parks. This manual is arranged around twelve topics that represent key questions, contradictions, or tensions in the design of small parks. Topics cover fundamental issues for urban parks, natural systems, and human aspects. Also included are useful case studies with alternative design solutions using three different approaches for integrating research findings into small urban park design.

The Small GTPase Ran Mark Rush, Peter D'Eustachio, 2012-12-06 The Ras-related nuclear protein Ran is a member of the so-called Ras-superfamily of small GTP-binding proteins and hydrolyzing proteins. A variety of edited anthologies related to the Ras-superfamily have appeared over the last decade, but Ran has been under-represented in all of them. This under-representation is not due to the fact that Ran is unimportant or non-abundant. It is almost certainly because Ran was discovered and its functions elucidated only recently, and that some of these functions may not follow the typical Ras-superfamily paradigm. Even workers in the field have difficulty keeping up with the Ran literature, and most outsiders rarely try even though they may be aware that major breakthroughs regarding the mechanisms of nuclear-cytosolic transport, mitosis and the maintenance of nuclear structure have depended upon an understanding of Ran function. The Small GTPase Ran is meant to provide specialists with a concise summary of some of the recent research in this area, along with background describing its initial identification and early characterization.
