Cities Back from the Edge Roberta Brandes Gratz, Norman Mintz, 2000-01-27 A love song for the city . . . [this] volume, attractively packaged and richly illustrated, is really a cookbook for downtown revitalization. --Wall Street Journal In this pioneering book on successful urban recovery, two urban experts draw on their firsthand observations of downtown change across the country to identify a flexible, effective approach to urban rejuvenation. From transportation planning and sprawl containment to the threat of superstore retailers, they address a host of key issues facing our cities today. Roberta Brandes Gratz (New York, NY), an award-winning journalist and urban critic, is author of the urban design classic The Living City. A former staff reporter for the New York Post, Gratz has written for the New York Times Magazine and other publications. Norman Mintz (New York, NY) has played a leading role in the field of downtown revitalization for more than twenty-five years. He is Design Director at the 34th Street Partnership in New York City and a consultant on downtown revitalization across the country.

Downtown Revitalization, 1996

Transbay Terminal/Caltrain Downtown Extension/Redevelopment Project in the City and County of San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties, 2004

Securing the Spectacular City Timothy A. Gibson, 2004 Seattle's project of 'downtown revitalization' is often touted as a civic endeavour that serves the community as a whole. Gibson questions that assumption. He examines the trade-off between the gain produced by redevelopment and the loss of public space.

Project Downtown ,2010 This study identifies the depth and breadth of the market for new market-rate dwelling units, both new construction as well as adaptive re-use of existing buildings, that could be developed over the next several years within Downtown Wichita, Kansas. For purposes of this study, the Downtown Wichita Study Area covers the general area bounded by Murdock Street in the north, Washington Street in the east, Interstate 54 in the south, and Sycamore Street in the west. The Study Area encompasses several districts--Government Center, Renaissance Square, Old Town, the Arena Neighborhood, WaterWalk, Century II, and the West Bank--and includes portions of several others--Historic Midtown, McAdams, Central Northeast, the Douglas Design District, South Central, and Delano.

Urban Design Downtown Anastasia Loukaitou-Sideris, Tridib Banerjee, 1998-10-19 The corporate downtown, with its multitude of social dilemmas and contradictions, is the focus of this well-illustrated volume. How are downtown projects conceived, scripted, produced, packaged, and used, and how has all this changed during the twentieth century? The authors of Urban Design Downtown offer a critical appraisal of the emerging appearance of downtown urban form. They explore both the poetics of design and the politics and economics of development decisions. Following a historical review of the various phases of downtown transformation, Anastasia Loukaitou-Sideris and Tridib Banerjee turn to contemporary American downtowns. They examine the phenomenon of public-space privatization, arguing that corporate open spaces are the consumer-oriented result of policies that have promoted downtown renovation and restructuring but at the same time have neglected the cities' existing poverty-stricken cores. The book's case studies of individual West Coast downtown projects capture the essence of late twentieth-century urbanism. This analysis of downtown urban America, which offers extensive insight into the design and development process, will interest architects, city planners, developers, and urban designers everywhere.
