Hatching the Big Green Egg Edward Fisher, Ed Fisher, 2010-02-01 Here's how Big Green Egg founder Ed Fisher made a weird-looking grill the fastest-growing product in the barbecue industry: He started with the right product. Then he found its flaws and fixed them. He joined hands with the right partners and never stopped coddling customers. Finally, he let the ideas for promotion flow. If you have a similar quirky product, you can make it work, too. Back in 1974, I came across a new product that I knew was a winner: a unique barbecue grill that can cook everything from steaks and whole turkeys to pizza, cherry pie, and low-and-slow brisket. The meat keeps its natural flavor and comes out unbelievably tender and juicy. Unfortunately, there were several problems when it came to marketing the grill. To begin with, it looked completely different from any other grill, like an egg standing on its chopped-off end. It was made of Japanese ceramic that goes back 3,000 years. And it was green.

Food, Feasts, and Faith [2 volumes] Paul Fieldhouse, 2017-04-17 An indispensable resource for exploring food and faith, this two-volume set offers information on food-related religious beliefs, customs, and practices from around the world. Why do Catholics eat fish on Fridays? Why are there retirement homes for aged cows in India? What culture holds ceremonies to welcome the first salmon? More than five billion people worldwide claim a religious identity that shapes the way they think about themselves, how they act, and what they eat. Food, Feasts, and Faith: An Encyclopedia of Food Culture in World Religions explores how the food we eat every day often serves purposes other than to keep us healthy and stay alive: we eat to express our faith and to adhere to ethnic or cultural traditions that are part of who we are. This book provides readers with an understanding of the rich world of food and faith. It contains more than 200 alphabetically arranged entries that describe the beliefs and customs of well-established major world religions and sects as well as those of smaller faith communities and new religious movements. The entries cover topics such as religious food rules, religious festivals and symbolic foods, and vegetarianism and veganism, as well as general themes such as rites of passage, social justice, hospitality, and compassion. Each entry on religion explains what the religious dietary laws and guidelines are and how these were interpreted and put into practice historically and in modern settings. The coverage also includes important festivals and feast days as well as significant religious figures and organizations. Additionally, some 160 sidebars provide examples and more detailed information as well as fun facts.

The Egg Hunt Ofelia Gränd, 2021-04-03 Jason has one rule when it comes to holidays -- work his shift behind the bar and then find a willing body to distract himself with. One night is long enough to satisfy his needs and still walk away with his heart intact. It has worked out fine for most of his adult life, but this Easter, he's trying something new. He's leaving the city to visit his friend Aiden, who recently moved in with his boyfriend in the middle of nowhere, but one unfortunate incident leaves Jason without a place to sleep. Tom doesn't just not do relationships, he rarely does hook-ups, either, and never too close to home. Living on his own without attachments is easier than having the whole town knowing about him. As the holiday approaches, his lonely house grows even quieter than normal -- at least until his friend Tristan dumps an arrogant bartender in his lap. As soon as Jason lays eyes on the gruff lumberjack whose home he'll be sharing, he knows who'll warm his bed for the weekend and help chase away any pending holiday gloom. Too bad Tom doesn't want to get with the program. As much as he wants to let Jason close, he won't risk outing himself for a weekend fling. Will Jason trust Tom not to break his heart if he stays longer than a couple of days? Will Tom value their relationship higher than the town gossip?

The Fatal Eggs, and Other Soviet Satire, 1918-1963 Mirra Ginsburg, 1987 This famous collection of Soviet satire from 1918 to 1963 devastatingly lampoons the social, economic, and cultural changes wrought by the Russian Revolution. Among the seventeen bold and inventive comic writers represented here are the brilliant Mikhail Bulgakov, author of The Master and Margarita, Ilf and Petrov, Mikhail Zoshchenko, Yevgeny Zamyatin, Valentin Katayev, and Yuri Kazakov. Amusing and excellent reading. The stories in this collection tell the reader more about Soviet life than a dozen sociological or political tracts. - Isaac Bashevis Singer; An altogether admirable collection . . . by the highly talented translator Mirra Ginsburg . . . Many of these stories and sketches are delicious, even-a miracle!-funny, and full of subtlety and intelligence. - The New Leader; Hilarious entertainment. Beyond this it illuminates with the cruel light of satire the reality behind the pretentious façade of the Soviet state. - The Sunday Sun (Baltimore).
