Calibration Services for Pavement Survey Equipment

Peter B. Moreland, 1983 Pavement survey equipment was investigated to determine what equipment is in use, what calibration services are required, and how these services can be provided. The major pavement survey equipment in use are the locked-wheel skid tester, response-type road meters, and dynamic-structural-capacity equipment. Other equipment in use or under development are profilometers, British Pendulum Testers, sand-patch gear, outflow meters, Mu Meters, falling-weight deflectometer, and keyboard-pavement-distress survey equipment. Calibration needs of these types of equipment are identified. Candidate Calibration Services are identified and evaluated through use of a rating scheme devised for this purpose.

Theorising Labour Law in a Changing World Alysia

Blackham, Miriam Kullmann, Ania Zbyszewska, 2019-09-05 This collection brings together perspectives from industrial relations, political economy, political theory, labour history, sociology, gender studies and regulatory theory to build a more inclusive theory of labour law. That is, a theory of labour law that is more inclusive of non-traditional workers (including those in atypical work, or from non-traditional backgrounds); more inclusive of a variety of collective approaches to work regulation that foster solidarity between workers; and more inclusive of interdisciplinary and complex explanations of labour law and its regulatory spaces. The individual chapters speak to this theme of inclusivity in different ways and offer different suggestions for how it might be achieved. They break down the barriers between legal research and other fields, to promote fruitful and integrative conversations across disciplines. In the spirit of inclusivity and intergenerational dialogue, the book blends contributions from early career and emerging scholars with those from leading scholars in the field, featuring critical commentary from senior labour law figures alongside theoretically and empirically informed work.
